VALUE OF HOMES HAS COME DOWN

ALLEGHENY CITIZENS ARE VICTIMS OF VICE

One Property Owner Was Beaten by Thugs for Complaining to the Police—A Brave Woman's Fight Results in Closing of One Den On the Northside—A Reign of Terror That Is Intended to Silence Objections.

Who stands between the law and the speakeasies and gambling houses of Allegheny?

Why are these places permitted to exist and flourish in defiance of the statutes?

Why are the complaints of reputable citizens and property owners ignored by those in authority?

The above are some of the pertinent questions that are being asked regarding the conditions on the North Side. These questions, and many others as much to the point, can be answered. There are many people in Allegheny who are willing to contribute to the replies. But those who own property in the First and Fourth wards, who have their homes and their families there, are not so much interested in knowing the wherefore as they are in having relief from the vicious surroundings with which they are hampered.

The Gazette has been asked to use its influence to bring about a better condition of affairs and it has undertaken this task. Fair warning has been given to those who are ignoring the law or obstructing its process. Public sentiment in favor of decency is becoming stronger daily and the reign of the speakeasy and the gambling house in this blighted district is nearing as end.

MANY POOR PEOPLE SUFFER.

To appreciate the conditions in the vice-stricken districts of Allegheny, one must circulate among the sprinkling of respectable people still living here or there through the Fourth ward, surrounded by gambling dens, wide-open clubs, and other disreputable resorts. They are the remnants of the once prosperous self-respecting neighborhood to the east of Federal street, the favorite residence district in the old days for the well-to-do middle class. Many of these people, who purchased homes for themselves when the surroundings were most pleasant, can not afford to dispose of them at a sacrifice, and property in that locality is not in demand just now.

They have been cowed by the rowdies. They complain bitterly of lack of police protection against the toughs and immoral population. Many of the more aggressive and outspoken have been victims of cruel persecutions, and feel that they can lift up their voices against the evils at their doors only when they and their families are safely on the neighborhood. To Gazette reporters these people have told damning tales of the revenge taken by their miserable neighbors. Law-abiding men have been assaulted on their own doorsteps by toughs against whose proteges they had complained. Women, defenseless and gray-headed women, have been warned to stop their complaints or move out of the neighborhood. One little woman, in the heart of the Fourth ward's tenderloin, has fought two speakeasies single-handed and forced them to close up—but at the cost of constant menace, which has amounted almost to a mandate to move elsewhere; of daily insults, before which a less courageous woman would have quailed. Nearly all of them, if given an opportunity, will willingly risk further insult and injury and go on the witness stand to give testimony as to the rottenness of that portion of Allegheny.

Many "For Sale" Placards.

Along East Robinson and East Lacock streets and River avenue there are two score of "for sale" placards on well built, splendidly kept residence properties. But property has depreciated so in price on account of the conditions in the neighborhood that no sales have been made for months. Persons hesitate to let their properties go at a sacrifice, and real estate agents almost refuse to handle them.

J. F. Henderson of No. 6209 Alder street, East End, retired auditor of the Pennsylvania Company, holds a controlling interest in a number of valuable properties on East Lacock street.

"As the violations have become more flagrant in the Fourth ward district," said Mr. Henderson yesterday, "the properties in that section, once very valuable, have decreased steadily in price. For one property on East Lacock street, a few doors from Federal, I was offered $11,000 cash 20 years ago. I held it, feeling sure that the new railroad terminals then in prospect in that section would enhance its value. Four years ago I was offered $9,000 for the same property, and a few days ago the best offer I could get was $8,000. No reason can be given for the drop in values except the increasing vice in that portion of the ward."

Beaten for Complaining.

William Humphrey, Sr., has lived at No. 512 East Robinson street for years. "I have had my property here for sale for five years," he said yesterday to a Gazette reporter, "but I cannot get anything like my investment out of it. Property in these two blocks of East Robinson street can scarcely be given away. In the year the property has been in the hands of my agent this last time we have not received a single offer for it. There was a time when East Robinson street property was in demand for homes—when a good, honest class of people occupied this section. But one by one the old families have been driven out by the vicious element. Conditions here have become unbearable. My wife cannot go outside her door after dark without inviting insult, and at times sleep is almost impossible."

Mr. Humphrey for two years conducted a vigorous campaign against the evil resorts along this part of East Robinson street. He incurred the enmity of the lawless element and he has since suffered from it. Petty persecutions have been the order in his neighborhood. Shortly after he had put in a complaint at City Hall against a resort very near his home a few months since, he was called out of his home at dusk one evening and assaulted by a young tough. The assailant afterward got away before the police could lay hands on him.

"I have complained to City Hall until I am tired," said Mr. Humphreys. "I have got no satisfaction. I want to take issue with that city official who says he has received no complaints about Fourth ward speak-easies. I and some of my neighbors have protested time and again."

A Brave Woman's Fight.

Two widows within a block of Mr. Humphrey's home have been endeavoring for a year or more to sell their properties but can find no buyers. All along East Robinson, East Lacock, Grantham and Goodrich streets and River avenue "for sale" placards can be seen. On River avenue one lady who has fought the speakeasies in her neighborhood almost single-handed for three years, tells many interesting stories of her attempts to secure action by the city authorities. Alone she cleaned out the half block in which she lived. When a noisy "wide open" club started only a few blocks from her home last spring she appealed to the police in vain to close it up, she says. Finally she called on the proprietor himself and notified him that if the place was not closed up by 6 o'clock the following evening she would lay the case before District Attorney Haymaker. The fellow immediately agreed to abandon the place and for two weeks the neighborhood had peace. Then a new proprietor moved in and the speakeasy ran more wide open than ever.

She Won Her Battle.

"I called at City Hall till they wearied of seeing me," said the little woman, telling the story yesterday. "The last time I went there to lodge a complaint the official I went to see left by the rear door of his office while I was waiting for him in the reception room. When this second afternoon opened I asked the officer on the beat to take some action. He told me he was powerless. Finally I met the police official whom I was looking for on the street one day. I told him that unless he kept his promise, oft given, to close the new joint, I would carry the entire case to the county officials. 'Don't do that, madame,' he said. 'I'll see that the place is closed this very night.' And the place was closed and since then there has been no speakeasy in this block."

J. H. Keller of 512 River avenue, who has joined with several neighbors in fighting the illegal drinking resorts in his section, said: "I went to the district attorney only a few months ago and asked him what action could be taken toward the suppression of the wide open houses of the district. We did succeed in closing up one place through the action of Mr. Haymaker. But when I referred these other cases to him he said they properly belonged in Allegheny. 'Though,' he added, you will get mighty little satisfaction over there.'"

All these respectable people who have been fighting the vice in the Fourth ward have been the recipients of the most vicious persecution. Threatening letters have been received, and members of the families have been annoyed in petty fashion. Within a few months Mr. Humphreys has received several letters threatening him with bodily injury if he continues his course.

Competition Is Keen.

Competition is so keen between the different gambling houses that runners are furnished with business cards and sent all over both cities. At any hour of the day or night cappers for the houses can be found in Federal street, where they pick up tenderfeet and steer them to the games. These cappers are also known as house men. Generally two, and sometimes as many as five, of them will be found in a game.

Short card men are thick throughout the First ward. So many of them are known to the regular habitues of the gambling places it is only on rare occasions they are allowed to sit in. Should they be unknown to the players in any of the games a stake is given by the proprietor and the short card sharper soon divides his gains with the owner of the place.

John W. Robinson, member of Allegheny councils, said that while he knew nothing from observation, he had been told that many places were run openly.

GREAT SHOWER OF STARS EXPECTED.

The Pyrotechnics of the Leonids Programed for Tomorrow Night, But Astronomers Are Not Sure.

UNLESS the calculations of astronomers are at fault the heavens hereabouts will be criss-crossed tomorrow night with a maze of shooting stars—the leonids of brilliant memory.

According to the schedule, the display will be in evidence Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, and, if up to its oldtime form, as many as 2,000 meteors may be counted in an hour. The showers may last for two or three hours. Astronomers expect the first to be seen soon after midnight on November 13. The constellation from which they radiate and from which they take their name, the constellation Leo, rises just before midnight of November 14, but is not well in view until 1 o'clock.

Meteors were last seen in considerable numbers in 1866-67. They were expected to reappear about November 14, 1890, and on the same day in 1900. Many lay awake those nights to see the heavens cut into little strips by streaming leonids, but only a few flitting stars appeared, and from a spectacular point of view it was pronounced a failure. Astronomers are by no means sure that this will not be a similar disappointment, some believing that other planets offer counter attractions to these wayward stars, and that they are becoming more and more disposed to desert this world for other planets where they may get more for their beams. However that may be, the astronomers, both amateur and professional, have made elaborate arrangements for observing such a display as may be apportioned to this locality.

It is somewhat doubtful whether photographs of the leonids will be attempted at the new Allegheny observatory, as the work on the building is not far enough along to mount the new curved plate cameras in the dome. If the sky is clear some observations may be made at the old observatory. No other instrument has ever been devised for meteor photography so efficient as the curved plate camera invented by Prof. Wadsworth. Nearly ten times as large a field of the heavens can be covered by this as by the old form used for this purpose.

PAIR OF CONVICTS SHOT AND TAKEN

Two More of the Leavenworth Mutineers Rounded Up by Farmers and United States Deputies.

ONE WAS MORTALLY WOUNDED

KANSAS CITY, MO., Nov. 11.—Today has added one more to the list of escaped Fort Leavenworth convicts captured, Lawrence Lewis, who was mortally wounded this morning near Quenemo, Kan., while making a dash through a cordon of armed deputies.

Lewis is a white boy, 20 years of age, who was sent up in October, 1900, to undergo a five years' sentence for larceny. He was tracked to a wooded place near Quenemo by the city marshal of that place, which is situated 40 miles southwest from Fort Leavenworth, and a dozen men bearing rifles. An order to surrender was met with defiance and Lewis unarmed, and, although practically surrounded, darted for the nearest opening. He had gone scarcely a hundred yards when a bullet from a Winchester in the hands of one of his pursuers pierced his lung from behind and brought him to the ground. Bleeding and fatally wounded, Lewis was taken to the marshal's office and cared for and Warden McClaughey was notified.

Three separate gangs of convicts have been reported at points within fifteen miles around Topeka since last night, and, although a crowd of penitentiary guards, deputy sheriffs and farmers have been active all day, night fell with only one capture, that of Lewis.

From the description received Warden McClaughey believes that the two captors of Sheriff Cook of Topeka Sunday were Arthur Hewitt, white, and Lon Southerland, a part Indian. Hewitt and Frank Thompson, a negro, were ringleaders in the outbreak, and the warden today increased the reward for their capture. Hewitt and Southerland were serving five-year sentences for larceny. Hewitt is 23 years of age, while Southerland is but 18.

At Alma, Kas., a running fight last night with two escaped convicts is reported. The convicts had stolen two horses and made good their escape after shooting a horse from under one of their pursuers.

TOPEKA, KAS., Nov. 11.—Frank Thompson, the negro leader of the mutiny at the federal prison at Leavenworth, which resulted in the escape last Thursday of 26 prisoners, was captured eight miles north of Council Grove this evening by a posse under command of Deputy United States Marshal E. A. Prescott. Thompson would not surrender, but was taken after a hard fight with the officers, in which he was shot in the head, but not severely injured. No member of the posse was hurt.

A PECULIAR GUSHER DISCOVERED IN TEXAS

Drill Drops Down Into Space Until Stopped by Workmen—Didn't Touch Bottom.

BEAUMONT, TEX., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The Beaumont confederated oil and pipe line well No. 3 was completed today and showed another peculiarity on the Spindle Top formation. Last Saturday the drill had gone 26 feet below the cap rock, which covers the oil sand, but bailing failed to develop anything more than an intermittent gusher, which is not to be considered on Spindle Top. Today the drill was sent down again and had gone but one foot, when it seemed to drop into space and went down without the least resistance below until stopped by the drillers. The oil came with a rush, and it developed a good six-inch gusher.

The Masterson well on the Keith-Ward tract had another gas blowout this morning. They were bailing the well when it took matters into its own hand and threw out mud and rock with terrible force. When the last news was received from the field the well had not been controlled, and it may blow in an oil gusher.

REAL RATHBUN IS YET ALIVE

Caught in Louisville and Makes Confession to the Police.

HIS SCHEME TO COLLECT INSURANCE

Put His Letters in Pockets of Dead Companion and Then Enlisted in the Regular Army Under an Assumed Name—Corpse Is Held.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Nov. 11.—Newell C. Rathbun, who was supposed to have been found dead in a Jeffersonville, Ind., hotel last Thursday, was arrested in Louisville today. According to Rathbun, the corpse which was shipped to Little Rock for burial as the body of Rathbun, was the body of W. La Ten Eyck. The police say Rathbun has confessed to desertion from the United States army, and to having formed a plan to fraudulently collect $4,000 insurance on his life, but that he denies having killed the man who died in the Jeffersonville hotel.

Rathbun was arrested this morning at the United States recruiting station in Louisville. He is held as a fugitive from justice. The arrest was made on information from Sergt. Skinner of the recruiting station. Rathbun enlisted under the name of "Lou Root, Detroit." Sergt. Skinner had read the story of the Jeffersonville case, and circumstances connected with the new recruit aroused his suspicions. One of these was the fact that the man had on a government suit of underwear. Rathbun said he had bought the garments from a soldier friend. Another circumstance was his knowledge of army affairs about Little Rock. He passed the examination and enlisted Saturday.

Rathbun Makes Statements.

At the detective's office Rathbun was put through the sweating process and under pressure made the following statement, according to his inquisitors:

"My name is Newell C. Rathbun, and my home is in Little Rock, Ark. Several months ago I deserted from the army post at Plattsburg, N. Y., in company with another recruit by the name of W. H. Ellis. I soon lost sight of him, and went to Little Rock. There I was married, and afterward took out the insurance policies.

"I came to Louisville about ten days ago and formed a plan to make the insurance company think I was dead so that I could collect the insurance. I fell in with a man who said his name was W. L. Ten Eyck, in front of the Salvation Army headquarters in Louisville, and told him of my plan, and he agreed to help me. Our plan was to obtain a corpse from some place, put it in a hotel in Jeffersonville, and then set fire to the hotel.

"While we were in Jeffersonville we took a number of drinks and Ten Eyck got drunk. I think his death was caused by drinking. I put the letters addressed to me in his pocket and left—I did not kill him. I then came to Louisville and went to the recruiting office and enlisted. My real home is in Detroit."

Identity of the Dead Man.

The police are trying to establish the identity of the dead man. One of their theories is that he was a tramp that Rathbun had fallen in with. The police have telegraphed to the Little Rock authorities to hold the corpse. A gold watch bearing the name of "W. H. Ellis" was found on Rathbun. He refuses to say where he got it. The police say the handwriting of "Lou Root," the recruit, was very similar to the signature of "W. L. Ten Eyck" on the Jeffersonville hotel register.

Coroner Coots of Jeffersonville states that he examined the stomach of the dead man and found traces of enough laudanum to kill two men.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Nov. 11.—The supposed body of Newell C. Rathbun was turned over to the coroner today and placed in a vault to await an autopsy. It is claimed by the authorities that the description of Rathbun does not even agree with that of the corpse.

Object to Indian Labor.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—A labor problem confronts the interior department as a result of 50 Indians of the San Carlos (Ariz.) reservation, under the leadership of the agency farmer, going to work on roads near the reservation. Citizens of that vicinity met last night and formally remonstrated against the employment of Indians on road work outside of the reservation.

Negroes Disfranchised

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Nov. 11.—Alabama today ratified the new constitution by a majority ranging from 25,000 to 35,000. The negroes turned out in large numbers to vote, for many of them their last opportunity, but could not control the result.

The new constitution provides educational or property qualifications for those who were not soldiers or descendants of soldiers, and contains a good character clause. It virtually disfranchises the negro in Alabama.

FALL FROM WINDOW KILLS A PROFESSOR

Instructor in Political Economy at Columbia University Meets With a Fatal Mishap.

POLICE THINK IT ACCIDENTAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Richard Mayo-Smith, a professor of political economy at Columbia university, was killed tonight by falling from a window of his study on the fourth floor of his residence in West Seventy-seventh street to the stone flagging in the rear. So far as the police have investigated the case they conclude that the fall was accidental.

Prof. Smith a short time ago began the year's vacation which Columbia gives to members of the faculty after they have served seven years. He had been ill for a few months, but not sick enough to cause the family any alarm. This evening he told his wife, who was in the study with him, that he felt tired and would lie down for a short time. She left him. Very soon after the butler, in passing the study door, saw the form of a man going out of the window. He thought it was a burglar, and ran down stairs to inform Mrs. Smith. Something made the wife think it might be her husband and on running out to the rear yard she saw the body of the professor. A physician who was called said death must have been instantaneous.

Prof. Mayo-Smith was 47 years of age. Besides his wife he leaves four children. He had been a professor of political economy at Columbia since 1883. He was born in Ohio and was graduated from Amherst college in 1875. He was an honorary fellow of the Royal Statistical society of Great Britain and a member of the National Academy of Sciences. He was a writer on economic subjects and the author of "Emigration and Immigration," "Sociology and Statistics," "Statistics and Economics." These works were published in 1890, 1895, and 1899, respectively.

GEN. URIBE-URIBE DEFENDS HIS CAUSE.

Explains His Connection With the Colombian Revolution at His Headquarters.

MARACAIBO, VENEZUELA, Nov. 11.—Gen. Uribe-Uribe has been interviewed at his camp on the frontier line between the Venezuelan state of Tachira and the Colombian province of Santander. His command, numbering several thousand Colombian Liberals, was holding the extreme left of the Venezuelan line of defense, covering the approaches of San Cristobal and the Encontrados railroad from the direction of Cucuta.

Gen. Uribe-Uribe said:

"This is not an international war between Venezuela and Colombia, but a struggle between the Liberal and Conservative parties of both countries. My force is simply a part of the Venezuelan line of defense, and, as its commander, I stand under the orders of Generalissimo Cipriano Castro, just like the other Liberal generals on this side of the frontier.

"We shall not repudiate any national debt, but as soon as it can be effected the wretched paper bills which are now being turned out in Bogota by the bushel shall be withdrawn from circulation. Next we shall try to effect a definite settlement of the isthmus canal question, and of the pending international negotiations. We shall stand by all our national treaties, as, for instance, the treaty with the United States of 1846, guaranteeing the neutrality of the isthmus railroad; but we shall put a definite stop to the present underhand dickering for our most valuable concessions to European countries.

"We have had enough of Panama frauds. We want Americans to undertake the completion of the canal, and we willingly accept the protection of the great North American republic at the isthmus, as we have already done in regard to the trans-Isthmus railroad."

Probable Russian Spies.

CHRISTIANIA, Nov. 11.—(Special Cable.)—A general commanding the Norwegian royal engineers informs the minister of justice that a number of Russian saw sharpeners are believed to be spies roaming over fortifications and strategically important points, and inquires what powers the law gives him to deal with the suspects, or, in event of no such law, he suggests a law to meet the case.

WORLD POLICY TO BE SETTLED

Foreign Questions Will Claim the Large Share of Congress When That Body Meets for Business Next Month.

ISOLATION OF UNCLE SAM HAS COME TO A SUDDEN END

Isthmian Canal and Reciprocity Treaties, Warships On the Great Lakes, Colonial Government for Islands, Possible Annexation of Cuba, Purchase of Danish West Indies, Chinese Exclusion and Pacific Cable.

BY WALTER WELLMAN.
(Special to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)
(Chicago Record-Herald Special.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—It is a remarkable fact that nearly all the questions now pending before the government of the United States have to do with our relations with other countries. In this respect there has been a great change during the last few years. Only a short time ago foreign questions of real importance only rarely came to the front. Now they engross all attention. Nothing could better illustrate the way in which the United States, despite its efforts to adhere to the traditional policy of isolation has been drawn into the world's affairs and been forced to take part in most of the world's international politics.

To show the overwhelming importance of foreign questions now pending, it is only necessary to give a list of them.

Foreign Questions Pending.

First—The Hay-Pauncefote treaty with Great Britain abrogating the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and providing for a neutral isthmian canal under the sole control of the United States.

Second—Proposed reciprocal trade treaties with foreign countries and the threatened European tariff war upon the United States. The tariff question, as a domestic consideration is fast merging into the broader outlook involved in the general principle of reciprocity.

Third—Plans for the isthmian canal, a great American enterprise on foreign territory, the rivalry between the two routes and the need of new treaties with certain isthmian countries.

Fourth—Adaptation of our system of government to the new colonial policy, producing semi-foreign questions of great importance, including another constitutional interpretation now soon expected from the supreme court.

Fifth—The Alaska boundary controversy with Great Britain, in which negotiations are now in progress between Secretary Hay and the British ambassador; also, other questions at issue between the United States and Canada.

Sixth—A proposition to abrogate by mutual consent the old Rush-Bagote treaty with England forbidding the building of warships on the great lakes.

Seventh—The proposed purchase of the Danish West Indies now in negotiation between Washington and Copenhagen.

Eighth—Renewal of the Chinese exclusion act and the exclusion of Chinese from the Philippines.

Ninth—The proposed Pacific cable.

Tenth—Last, but by no means least, the problem of the precise scope of the Monroe doctrine, and the question whether or not European governments are to be permitted to secure naval stations in Central and South America.

Chicago Wishes to Build Warships.

Representative Boutell of Chicago saw the president today on interest him in the movement to abrogate the Rush-Bagote treaty so that warships may be built on the great lakes and sent to the seaboard. He emphasized the disadvantage under which lake shipbuilders are operating under the treaty, being unable to compete with the shipyards on the coast in the construction of naval vessels because of the clause prohibiting the building of warships on the great lakes. The construction of new locks and deepening of the channels has made it feasible for the lake shipbuilders to contract for the delivery of moderate-sized war craft, but while they have every facility for the work, they are restricted by treaty stipulations.

The president remarked that he realized the growing importance of the shipbuilding industry on the great lakes, and believed it should be encouraged, but that he would prefer that work upon the revision of the treaty to which Mr. Boutell referred should be postponed until the isthmian canal convention is out of the way. It is probable, therefore, that the shipbuilders of the lakes, with the other industries there that are interested in the construction of warships, must wait until the canal treaty is disposed of. The president showed interest in the matter, and Mr. Boutell expects his hearty cooperation at the proper time.

No Surrender of Alaskan Territory.

Negotiations are pending between Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote concerning the Alaskan boundary controversy. It is now proposed to appoint a joint committee of experts, one-half the members thereof to be named by each party to the dispute, these experts to investigate the whole matter and make a report. Neither the United States nor Great Britain is bound by this report, and the reference of the matter to such a commission is by no means to be considered an arbitration, but simply a means of securing information. The United States government will never consent to an arbitration of this question, because it feels confident its claims are sound. The trouble with arbitrations is that they nearly always result in a compromise, and the United States cannot consent to any compromise on questions touching territory over which it is surely the sovereign. The Lynn canal will never be surrendered by the United States.

The new Hay-Pauncefote treaty is now being put in shape at the state department and will be ready for signature within a short time. It will go to the senate at the beginning of the present congress early next month. Its chief provisions are precisely as outlined in these dispatches a month ago—abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, neutrality of the canal guaranteed by the United States alone, no invitation to foreign powers to give their adherence, and the United States to have the right to take such steps as it may deem proper for the protection of the canal and of its interests, these rights including, of course, that to fortify the waterway.

Pauncefote Ready to Sign Treaty.

The negotiations at London were carried on by means of an exchange of notes between Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote. Thus, all the disputed points were considered in writing, and nothing was intrusted to memory or understanding of spoken words. Those memoranda finally agreed upon and ratified by the cabinet form cabinet form articles of the new treaty and at the time being are engrossed in proper form as the treaty. It is believed by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay that the treaty will be ratified before the holiday adjournment of the senate and without opposition. Ambassador Pauncefote is only awaiting authorization from London to affix his signature to the convention.

Complications have arisen in the negotiations for the purchase of the Danish Islands in the West Indies by the United States. One of these was brought about by a change of ministry at Copenhagen, and the new minister there seems to think the matter taken up and discussed again for their benefit. This has not been done. The Danish government is willing to sell to the United States, but insists that it shall be stipulated in the treaty that the inhabitants of the islands shall be immediately recognized as citizens of the United States, entitled to all rights as such. The state department cannot agree to such a provision. The United States may ultimately be willing to grant such rights to the people of the Danish islands, in case they fall under the sovereignty of the United States, but this request raises the whole question of the colonial policy of our government.

Our Colonial Policy.

The supreme court decided last spring that congress has the power to rule colonies or possessions under the territorial clause of the constitution with a free hand and without taking such territory within the United States in the full constitutional sense. The trend of opinion in congress appears to be toward exercising this power without incorporation of our new possessions, and the indications that this is to be the policy of our government are so strong that the state department does not now think it would be justified in an agreement to a contrary course for the benefit of the people of the Danish islands.

Cuban annexation is another semi-foreign question which may possibly come to the front at an early date, as the economic question in that island is inevitably pressing more and more toward annexation for the sake of securing the great market of the United States. But there is a strong feeling both in the cabinet and among Republican senators that Cuban annexation should not be thought of, at least for some years to come. When Secretary Root was in Cuba last fall he told the people there that in his opinion the time would come when they would ask for annexation. "But," he added, "instead of the people of the United States wanting to acquire your island you will probably have to beg a long time at the gate before you are taken." That prediction may be verified before many years have passed.

FUTURE OF THE ARSENAL.

It Will Be Decided Next Month by a Board of Generals.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The fate of Allegheny arsenal will be decided next month by a board of the highest army officers, which Secretary Root has ordered to convene here on November 25. It is the impression at the department that the board will recommend that the Allegheny arsenal be turned over to Quartermaster General Ludington to be used as a depot for quartermaster stores. This can be done without additional expense. The board will consist of Lieut. Gen. Miles and Department Commanders Brook, Otis, Young, MacArthur, Bates, Randall and Kobbe.

The order directs the board to consider and report upon the location and distribution of military posts. The board will recommended which posts shall be abandoned, and of those retained, which shall be enlarged, and to what exent, and the location, size and character of such new posts as may be necessary. The board will also formulate a project for the locating and survey of sites for four permanent camp grounds for instruction of the regular army and national guard.

Lieut. Gen. Miles will leave here tomorrow night for Sandy Hook, N. J., to witness the test of the new Gathmann gun as a rival of the regulation 12-inch rifle. Both guns will attack Krupp-steel armor plate furnished by the Carnegie Steel Company.

KILLED HIS SWEETHEART.

A Jilted Tennessee Lover Then Commits Suicide.

ELIZABETHTOWN, TENN., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Frank Kidwell, aged 23, today shot and killed his sweetheart, Ada Thompson, aged 16, and then committed suicide.

The cause of the tragedy is said to be the refusal of the girl's father to allow Kidwell to visit his daughter and her declination to marry him. Both are members of prominent families.

UNITED STATES MINISTER ATTACKED

Fired Upon By a Colombian Sentinel Who Refused to Honor His Passport. The Soldier Punished.

(Special to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)
(Copyright, 1901, by New York Herald.)

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA, Nov. 11.—A sentinel at Tequindama Falls on October 25 declined to honor the passport of United States Minister Charles Hart and fired one shot at the diplomat. The minister was not hit by the bullet.

The government has severely punished the sentinel and is seeing that the minister is fully protected.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Charles Burdett Hart was born in Maryland, and was appointed minister to Colombia May 27, 1897, being credited to West Virginia. He was a well-known newspaper man in the state of his adoption, resigning a position as editor of the Wheeling Intelligencer to enter the diplomatic service. He was one of the original McKinley men in the campaign of 1896, and received his appointment immediately after Mr. McKinley's inauguration. As minister at Bogota, Mr. Hart has done effective work, having succeeded, among other things, in bringing about the settlement of the old Panama Star and Herald claim.

WAGE QUESTION CLOSES MINES

Clarksburg Fuel Company Suspends Operation of Its Fairmont Plant.

ONE HUNDRED MEN OUT OF WORK

Inauguration of a Struggle Between the United Mine Workers of America and the West Virginia Coal Operators.

BY ED. M. HEERMANS,
Staff Correspondent.

ROSEMONT, W. VA., Nov. 11.—The Tyroconnell coal mines at this place have been closed indefinitely and the scenes about the works are far from encouraging for the 100 or so miners who are out of work. The works are owned by the Clarksburg Fuel Company and the closing of the mines forms an important chapter in the struggle of unionism to gain a foothold among the mines of West Virginia.

The Tyroconnell mines had been operated by the Colonial Coal & Coke Company with indifferent success for several years. The Clarksburg Fuel Company purchased the property a month ago and found after operating the plant for a month that the business was not profitable at the scale of wages which had been paid. The Clarksburg Fuel Company declined to operate at a loss as other nearby plants had, and proposed to resume at the scale which is paid elsewhere at their mines.

The organizers of the United Mine Workers of America were on the field and influenced the miners to decline the offer, stating that so long as they were idle they would be furnished provisions and clothing from the national headquarters.

Already some provisions have been given the needy ones. The company announces that the works will be abandoned and the contest is ended. The national organizers stated that they expected to make this a test case if the operators tried to operate the mines with non-union labor. They were not given the opportunity because the operators concluded to abandon the works.

The miners claim that the new offer made by the company was practically a reduction in wages of 18 and 85-100 per cent. That they were locked out and without just cause. The company reserved the right to operate the mines according to what they claimed to be a profitable basis, and since the men decline to return to work, the approach of winter with enforced idleness makes the outlook gloomy.

Within three weeks the greatest movement ever attempted to organize West Virginia miners will have begun. As a result of the Huntington miners' convention last month the campaign will be conducted along vigorous lines and many of the details have been arranged. At another meeting to be held in Huntington near the last of this month the final plans will be outlined. All the talent and money available by the United Mine Workers of America will be placed at the disposal of the West Virginia organization.

The chapter enacted within the past few days at Tyrconnell is very similar to the other chapters in the history of this effort to organize the miners of West Virginia. There is a degree of contentment and prosperity among the coal miners of this state which makes the work of the national organizers difficult. Quite a number of the miners at Tyrconnell were willing to resume work because they considered that the car system of compensation was quite as profitable to them as the scale system heretofore in vogue there. In scores of mines in this state, and in fact in nearly all the mines, the system of paying by the car is in daily use and has been successful and profitable to miners.

In talking with union men at Tyrconnell today I found them uncommunicative.

It seems that the company had no intention of continuing the Tyrconnell mines for any great length of time even at the new scale which they offered, for the mine is not large and the plant not equipped as well as others they have. So the cars which would go to the Tyrconnell mines can be utilized to good advantage at other plants for hauling the output.

The miners seemed peaceful and quietly disposed. They are mostly natives of the state and county where the mines are located and are men of sober and quiet mien. They have taken the matter into their own hands and it looks as if times would be quiet at Tyrconnell for many a month.

The national and state mine workers intended to make a supreme battle in West Virginia this winter. This region, known as the Fairmont region and comprising the coal works in more than a half dozen counties, will be the battle ground. The operators have nothing to say upon the subject but refer one to their working miners, who seem contented enough. But the national organizers predict a sweeping victory for their union.

KILLED IN AN EXPLOSION.

Three Men Lose Their Lives in a Mine at LaBelle.

(Special to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 11.—A terrific explosion of gas at the La Belle coal shaft in the Sixth ward about 10:45 this morning resulted in the death of three well-known miners of this city.

The dead are:

JAMES ROBERTSON, aged 48 years; resided on Prospect avenue; leaves a widow and seven children.

EDWARD SIMPSON, aged 36; resided on South Sixth street; leaves a widow.

WILLIAM VANDINE, aged 53; resided on Fishers run, near Wilsons Corner; leaves a widow and three young children.

The explosion is supposed to have been caused by an accumulation of gas. The La Belle shaft was formerly known as the Jefferson shaft. For years it was abandoned, and when the La Belle company purchased the Jefferson iron works property they reopened the shaft, and for months have been pumping water out of it. The three men who lost their lives this morning were taking the pump apart to lower it farther in the mine. Robert Hoover, who was with them, had started to get into the bucket to go down, but Vandine, the foreman, pushed him back, saying he would go in his place, as it was too cold for oHover at the bottom of the shaft.

Vandine, Robertson and Simpson went down together in the big iron bucket. They had reached the bottom and the engine stopped. A minute later the engineer, Louis Leonhart, saw the flames shooting up from the mouth of the shaft. Instinctively he pulled the lever and started the bucket back towards the surface. As it came up through the flames and smoke it was seen that two of the men were still in it, lying in a heap unconscious and with their clothing ablaze. Robert Hoover, who had stood at his post by the side of the opening, swung the bucket clear of the flames and the men were taken out. They were Robertson and Vandine. The latter was dead, but Robertson lived a few minutes after being taken out.

The third body was recovered from the shaft at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

J. O. BROWN PERSISTENT.

The Way He Haunts Philadelphia Leaders Seems to Indicate a Hitch in His Plans.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Ex-Director J. O. Brown made another pilgrimage to Philadelphia today. He spent some time at the Pennsylvania railroad office and then struck the trail of Senator Penrose and insurance Commissioner Israel W. Durham. He saw neither during the afternoon, but is said to have connected later. Mr. Durham did not return from Lakewood until tonight. He met the senator shortly after his arrival. The persistency with which Mr. Brown follows the local leaders is here construed as evidence that there has been a hitch in the plans of Senator Flinn and himself to secure the removal of Recorder A. M. Brown. It is reported that Gov. Stone requires that the indorsement of Penrose and Durham be secured.

"I do not know." This was the answer given by J. O. Brown when asked today when he would be appointed recorder of Pittsburgh.

"I do not wish to discuss the matter," he continued. "My visit here has no political significance."

UNIONISTS CRY FRAUD.

Their Philadelphia Committee Will Try to Find Out What Struck Them Last Tuesday.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 11.—The city committee of the Union party held its first regular meeting today since the election and took steps to investigate alleged violations of the election laws last Tuesday. State Chairman Frank M. Riter offered a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, that the city chairman investigate all charges of flagrant violation of election laws and to arrange at once for the criminal prosecution of all who participated therein."

All ward chairmen are to report such evidence or violations as they can secure within ten days with a view to contests.

TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN.

Many Lives Saved by the Fact That the Passenger Train Was Half an Hour Late.

KENT, O.—The Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 5, due in Kent at midnight, was half an hour late last night. Owing to this fact a freight which would have remained at Monroe Falls came on to Kent, and the engineer discovered on the main track a heavy timber. It was placed across the track and spiked down. The scene is on a high embankment above the Cuyahoga river.

SAW THREE CENTURIES.

Death of Mrs. Luciany Searing, 103 Years Old.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Mrs. Luciany Searing, who had lived in three centuries, died today at her home near Fairchance, aged 103 years. She was the daughter of William Brady, and was born in Baltimore, Md., May 14, 1798.

Eighty-six years ago Miss Brady married Jacob Searing, who has been dead 20 years. They had 14 children, six of whom survive. She had 145 descendants, among them 42 grandchildren.

WILL STUDY PAINTINGS.

Committee Trying to Interest School Children in Art Exhibits.

A committee representing the public schools of Pittsburgh, composed of O. W. Kratz, president of the Principals' association; Prof. Joseph Logan, principal of the Peebles school; Mrs. M. E. VanWagoner, supervisor of drawing in the public schools, and Miss Kate Neumont, teacher of drawing in the Sixteenth ward public school, held a meeting at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at the Carnegie institute, in the office of the director of fine arts, for the purpose of considering plans with reference to the best means of interesting the students of the public schools in the annual and permanent exhibitions of the institute.

A number of plans were considered, among others the plan followed last year, when all the teachers and many of the advanced students of the city visited the galleries in groups of about 100 each to study the paintings. Arrangements were made to have all the official teachers of drawing visit the galleries at an early date for the purpose of study.

PURE WATER DEMANDED.

Mill Owners Along Youghiogheny and Monongahela Rivers May Appeal to the Legislature.

All the mills along the Youghiogheny and Monongahela rivers are experiencing the same trouble from low water as that which has been embarrassing the railroad companies for some time. It requires the utmost caution to prevent a disaster owing to the water foaming in the boilers, and it is almost impossible to keep up enough steam to operate all departments in full. At the National tube works, Carnegie mills and other big plants settling tanks are in use. The plan is not a success, however, as the manufacturing companies have not reservoirs sufficiently large to settle all the water they use.

There is some talk of an appeal to the state legislature at its next session to consider the matter. The coal companies could erect mammoth reservoirs, into which the water from the mines could be drained. Two such reservoirs would be necessary at every coal works. While one was settling the other could be drained off and cleaned. The plan would be expensive, but the manufacturers say that as it is the coal companies which pollute the water they should bear the expense of freeing it from its impurities.

The trouble has been increasing yearly. In times of high water the current carries away the impurities drained out from the mines, but during the dry season, which comes every summer and fall, the rivers become so impregnated with mineral matter from the mines that the water is unfit for use.

GOT SCANT PLUNDER.

Bank Robbers in Smithton Break Into the Vault, But Secure Less Than $10.

When Cashier N. E. Rhoades of the Smithton national bank arrived at the bank this morning he found the building open and the outer and inner doors of the big vault torn off with dynamite. Nine dollars and sixty-seven cents, which had been loose in the vault, was missing. The safe, which sat just within the vault doors, had successfully resisted the efforts of the thieves and $15,000 which it held was not disturbed.

The persons who accomplished the burglary were evidently men that understood their business. They had taken their time to the job and evidently were in no hurry. A carpenter's tool chest, which was stored in a nearby blacksmith shop, had been broken into and tools for opening the bank doors had been taken from it. After opening the vault and getting what they could, the thieves returned the borrowed tools to the place from which they got them.

The burglary is supposed to have taken place about 2 o'clock this morning. William Harris, who lives just opposite the bank, says he heard two shots at that hour, but mistook them for railroad torpedoes. The bank is located in a substantial brick building in the center of the town. Smithton is a little coal mining town, and at night there is no police force. The bank is one of the newer financial institutions of the country, is capitalized at $25,000, and is considered one of the wealthiest of the small national banks in this end of the state.

A PROSPEROUS CORPORATION.

Controls a Large Business in Ore, Steel, Paper and Other Works.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The annual report of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company was made public today. The company has developed rapidly within the past year and now controls vast mining, steel, paper, and other industrial enterprises in the Canadian Sault Ste. Marie district. It is now building a railroad 250 miles in length which will connect with the Canada Southern.

The total amount of preferred stock outstanding on October 31, 1901, was $14,475,900; total average amount of preferred outstanding for the year ending June 30, 1902, will not exceed $18,000,000, upon which the dividend will be $1,260,000. The directors say:

"The amount of net earnings which will be realized from June 30, 1901, to June 30, 1902, upon the sale and transportation of iron ore from the Helen ore mine, will alone be sufficient to pay the entire preferred stock dividend of the company."

FOR RECIPROCITY, BUT—

Philadelphia Board of Trade Won't Indorse Pending Treaties.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The executive council of the board of trade today adopted the report from the committee on foreign and coastwise commerce, to which was referred on April 15 a communication from the chamber of commerce of New York in regard to the French reciprocity treaty. The committee's report was:

Resolved, That while the broad subject of a national policy of reciprocity is being considered, the Philadelphia board of trade deems it unwise to indorse specifically any reciprocity treaty now pending.

The report was adopted, and the following resolution was offered:

That in order to strengthen our industrial and commercial systems only such sensible changes in our trade arrangements should be made as may tend to enlarge our increasing commerce, but in no case interrupt the course of our home production.

FIRE DESTROYS MINING PLANT

Port Royal Property Damaged to the Extent of $60,000.

SEVERAL HUNDRED MEN ARE IDLE

The Scene of a Fatal Explosion Is Again Visited by Disaster—The Mine Had Just Resumed Operations After the Accident.

(Special to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

WEST NEWTON, PA., Nov. 11.—Shortly after last midnight the plant of the Port Royal mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company was discovered to be on fire. The alarm was given by Watchman Reede of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, but before help arrived the flames were beyond control. The power house, blacksmith shop and car shop, where the company made its own cars, were burned to the ground and much valuable machinery destroyed. The loss will reach $60,000 and several hundred men will be thrown out of employment. How the fire started is unknown. The only explanation is that the buildings were used by tramps as a place to sleep. This is the plant where nearly a score of men lost their lives a few months ago and which but recently resumed operations.

JEWEL CASE MISSING.

Traveling Salesman Lost a Grip Said To Be Valued at $1,200.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The mysterious disappearance of a case of jewels lost by a salesman for a Philadelphia jewelry house is worrying the railroad detectives. The case is said to have contained nearly $1,200 worth of diamonds. The salesman boarded an eastbound train here a couple of evenings ago. Instead of it being a through eastern train it was a southwest local. He discovered his mistake at East Greensburg and hurried from the car, leaving his valuable grip on a seat. The train pulled out before he could re-enter the car.

When Youngwood was reached it was discovered by the conductor, who had been notified by wire, that the jewel case had disappeared. There is no clue to the person who evidently jumped from the train with the jewels.

Shot at Wife and Killed Himself.

SCOTTDALE, PA., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Mike Porowski, a Slavish miner at the Donelly works, near this place, this afternoon drew a revolver and fired three shots at his wife. The woman ran out of the house and escaped unhurt. Porowski then turned the weapon on himself, firing two shots into his body, from the effects of which he died almost instantly.

Early Holiday Shopping.

Perhaps the very thing you want is here now and may be gone later.

That sentence contains a strong suggestion relative to early Christmas shopping. It's ever so true of the novelties—especially the European novelties.

We are just as busy as can be in the afternoons. Not so busy as we would like to be in the early mornings.

And there's where a great many miss it who like plenty of elbow room. We know how it is—one likes to meet friends, and of course the afternoon is the time to run up against them.

But if you want to shop with all the comforts that you can possibly get—try the morning hours.

The Horse Show Millinery

will be the feature of the Winter Millinery Opening, beginning today—just such creations as were imported for the smart set of New York to wear at the annual Horse Show.

It seems rather incongruous to name horses and fashion in the same breath, and yet this New York Horse Show is the arbiter of fashions for the winter season—not only of Millinery, but of wraps and toilettes.

Besides the Paris Millinery we also want you to have a peep at the new Fur Trimmed Turbans and the large Afternoon Picture Hats.

In a word, all that is lovely and beautiful in Winter Millinery on exhibition today.

Lansdowne.

Over in Philadelphia there is a weaver of textiles by the name of Read—you've often seen the name in the fashion magazines, Wm. F. Read, printed in fac-simile perforation that goes on the selvage of all his cloths—well, he's the man that makes the famous Lansdowne.

Thousands of women in and around Pittsburg know this beautiful fabric, but we expect it will be news to them that it is made in the good State of Pennsylvania.

It is the perfection of the combination employed—silk and wool—and dress-makers use it for creating some of their handsomest creations in evening gowns and waists.

Lately the famous fashion centers of Paris have taken it up, and when Paris sets her approval on any fabric it's a go—on the other side.

It has long been a favorite with our people. Its sterling worth made it so. It could not be otherwise with its pretty, refined face.

We carry it in all colors and black.

$1.25 a yard.

Another Special Sale of Ornamental Combs.

Today, center aisle.

We succeeded in getting another lot of those beautiful Italian Shell Side and Neck Combs. Takes an expert to distinguish them from real tortoise shell.

These prices make one wonder why women pay the price for real shell.

3 and 3½ inch Side Combs, 25c a pair.
3½ and 4 inch Neck Combs, 50c each.
3 and 3½ inch Side Combs, 50c a pair.
Extra heavy Quill Top Neck Combs, 3, 3½ and 4 inches, new shapes, 75c each.
Pectineum Hair Catchers, small, 20c each; medium, 35c; large, 50c each.
Florodora Neck Combs, 20c, 25c, 35c, 40c, 50c each.

The Sample Line of Silk Petticoats.

We've already alluded to this sale which starts this morning.

You know when a manufacturer makes anything to sell to a retailer he gives the samples an extra touch or two. It's business.

We took a maker's sample line and it's a fine one. No two skirts alike. The prettiest kind of effects in accordion pleats, tucks and stitching, with such garnishings as lace and ribbon. Colors for all tastes—light, medium and dark shades, as well as black.

If we bought the petticoats in the regular way we would pay at least 50 per cent more. We did not buy them in the regular way. We were after a concession—a big one. We got it. It belongs to the customer, and the customer gets it when she pays any of the following low prices, or the in-between prices—

$4.50, $5.25, $7.50, $10, $12 and up to $21.

Satins for the Making of Fancy Articles.

The annual gift-time creates a demand for fancy satins. Women know how to employ them.

A gift tendered in a satin-lined box is just that much more enjoyable.

We are, as usual, amply prepared with full lines of colors and all their shades.

50c, 75c, 85c, $1 a yard.

To Parents:

By the aid of an electric motor we now have a great lot of our mechanical toys in operation at one time.

It's a fine sight for the little people—more especially the boys.

If you cannot come with them, let them run in themselves. We'll take care of them.

They would have plenty of time when school's out—a couple of hours.

If you give the word, we'll lay any of the mechanical pieces aside for you. Anything else, for that matter.

The Fifty Cent Group of Specials.

Do you know there is really something fascinating about that subsidiary coin—the half dollar?

Since we mentioned those 50c Specials last Friday there has been what we call a grand rush. As a grand rush is a good thing to keep up we give you the list again.

A quantity of the ever necessary Chatelaine Bags—best we ever saw for the money. Seal grain, walrus grain, embossed, hornback, alligator and patent leather—bring half-a-dollar and choose.
Pocketbooks for men and women—genuine seal, alligator, morocco and walrus grains—all the newest shapes and colors—choose for the half of a dollar.
A lot of imported Novelties direct from Germany and Austria—silver trimmed glass vases, metal trinket trays, bon-bon dishes and dozens of pretty little novelties—each just the half of a dollar.

NEW THEORIES OF CRIMINOLOGY

German Professor Holds That Commission of a Certain Class of Crime Betters the Culprit--Flogging Better Than Imprisonment. Death for the Incorrigibles.

(Special to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—German lawyers and jurists are discussing the new theory of criminal punishment advanced by Dr. Franz von Liszt, professor of criminal law of the University of Berlin.

Liszt holds that persons who commit crimes of vengeance become, through the very commission of the crime, better members of society. Accordingly, he says that all modern schemes of penalty for such misdemeanors are purposeless and useless. He includes lovers, wronged husbands and wives, in the list as those beyond the scope of present-day criminal codes.

Liszt argues that when individuals are wrought to a pitch of frenzy through legitimate or natural cause, and led under its overpowering influence to commit a crime, they are morally cleaner therefor, through having rid themselves of the surcharged passions.

Another class of criminals for whom present systems of punishment are inadequate, Liszt calls the psychologically defective, confirmed lawbreakers, and recommends death or deportation as a substitution for imprisonment for certain of these criminals. Liszt believes and advocates a general restoration of flogging, from the standpoint of health, saying it stimulates activity, while imprisonment usually undermines strength by sapping.

MISS STONE PATIENT UNDER MANY TRIALS.

Endures Hardship Without Complaint, Hopeful of Her Ultimate Release.

SOFIA, BULGARIA, Nov. 11.—From another letter that has been received from Miss Ellen M. Stone, the abducted American missionary, it appears that she is enduring the trials of her hard experience with fortitude, forgetting herself in her anxiety for her compaion, Mme. Tsilka.

Miss Stone does not dare to complain of the treatment to which they are subjected, but she finds the confinement irksome and the weather extremely trying.

The tone of the latest letter received from her is hopeful. The brigands, by dating the letters at places in Macedonia and delaying the delivery, seek to create the appearance of being far distant.

The Bulgarian government continues to interfere in the negotiations with the object of forcing a transference of them across the frontier.

DEAL NOT YET CLOSED.

Danish Premier States Position of His Government on the Island Question.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 11.—The premier, Dr. Deuntzer, in an interview today on the subject of the negotiations for sale of the Danish West Indies is quoted as saying that the Washington and London dispatches declaring that the islands have been sold to the United States for $4,000,000, with the understanding that the inhabitants are to be granted citizenship and free trade, are all incorrect.

The negotiations are progressing but the result cannot be definitely predicted. The negotiations, the premier said, would be concluded at Copenhagen, the treaty would be signed at Washington and it would be ratified by the United States before it received the ratification of the Danish rigsdag.

ANOTHER STOKES WILL.

Second One Leaves Estate to His Mother, Who Died Some Months Ago.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A will, executed by Edward S. Stokes on March 22, 1894, was filed in the surrogate's office today. The testator directs that after his lawful debts shall have been paid his mother, Nancy Stokes, is to receive all his estate whatsoever kind and nature he possesses at the time of his death. Mr. Stokes names Elbtur V. Foote, his brother, Horace Stokes, and James D. Leary as his executors, but subsequently states that he has revoked the appointment of Leary.

In view of the fact that Mr. Stokes' mother died some months ago, if the 1894 will stands his brother, Horace Stokes of Hackettstown, N. J., and his sister, Mrs. Mary J. MacNutt of this city, will, it is said, inherit whatever estate he may have left.

COLLIDED WITH AN ICEBERG.

Panic on Passenger Vessel During a Blinding Snowstorm.

SEATTLE, Nov. 11.—The Lynn canal steamer City of Topeka steamed slowly into the harbor this morning without passengers or cargo, with her stem bent and a gaping hole near the water line. The steamer collided with a sunken iceberg in Taku bay on the up trip, on the night of November 2.

A blinding snowstorm was raging at the time, and when the shock came some of the passengers, thinking the ship was going down, made frantic attempts to get into the life boats. It was soon found that although several iron plates were broken through there was no immediate danger.

AFRICAN PARADISE UNDER THE EQUATOR

Sir Harry Johnston Depicts Delights of Uganda for English People.

(Special Cable to Pittsburgh Gazette.)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Sir Harry Johnston, K. C. B., special commissioner to the Uganda protectorate, in a lecture at the Royal Geographical society tonight declared that country is rich in possibilities.

"Instead of the whole region being deadly to health, as Europeans generally imagine," said he, "it is an extensive tableland immediately under the equator and of a surprisingly temperate climate. The scenery is remarkably similar to the British isles, and whites live there in perfect safety.

"Undoubtedly the protectorate will be greatly developed when railroads are completed. The recently discovered extensive forests of rubber trees include six distinct varieties, all of excellent quality. The natives are unusually intelligent and tractable and provide all the labor required.

"Big game of the rare species is abundant. I found one lake completely surrounded by myriads of flamingoes, forming a brilliant fringe at least a half-mile in width. The western districts still remain unexplored, but promise a valuable yield to scientific and commercial efforts.

LANGUAGE OF PYGMIES.

African Explorer Says It Differs According to Associations in the Forest.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Sir Harry Johnston, speaking tonight before the Royal Geographical society on his explorations in Uganda, said he had no reason to believe that any other remarkable discoveries of unknown animals in addition to the okapi would be made. He announced that he had obtained in the Congo forest the skins of several beasts that were new to science.

"As a result of my study of the pygmies," he said, "I have concluded that there is no special pygmy language. Each section of the pygmies speaks more or less imperfectly the language of the forest negro with whom he is associated. The pygmy pronunciation, however, is constantly punctuated with little gasps in the place of consonants."

FRIENDS ONCE MORE.

French Charge at Constantinople Calls Upon Ottoman Minister of Foreign Affairs.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 11.—The French flag waves to-day above the French embassy in Constantinople for the first time since August 26. M. Bapst, council of the embassy, has called upon the Ottoman minister of foreign affairs, Tewfik Pasha, thus formally renewong the diplomatic relations between France and Turkey.

The destination of the vessels of Admiral Caillard's squadron, which left the island of Mitylene this morning is the island of Syra. The battleships Chalemange and Gaulois and the armored cruiser Admiral Pothuau, however, will go first to Phocaea (about 30 miles northwest of Smyrna) to coal afterward rejoining the squadron.

SAMAR TRICK FAILS.

Filipinos Catch Soldiers at Breakfast But Find Them Armed.

MANILA, Nov. 11.—Maj. William L. Pitcher of the Eighth regiment of infantry, commanding the Mindoro expedition, reports that the garrison of Abra De Ilog was attacked yesterday by a force of insurgents, commanded by Lencos. The Filipinos apparently attempted to repeat the Samar tactics, but the Americans, who were breakfasting fully armed, routed the insurgents, who left five men dead on the field, each having a rifle and ammunition. One American was seriously wounded.

Samar insurgents are flocking northward. They are also suffering greatly from famine. Many isolated bolomen have surrendered.

VACCINATION CAUSES LOCKJAW.

Little Girl Victim of the Virus Dies in Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Tetanus, resulting from vaccination, caused the death yesterday of Elizabeth Griffith, 13-year-old daughter of Morris Griffith, a carpenter.

The child was inoculated 18 days ago at the City hospital. The arm was inflamed for a week or more, and three days ago tetanus developed. Three physicians tried to save the child's life.

BOTH ACCEPT THE MEDIATION

Indications Are That Chile Will Umpire the Dispute Between Colombia and Venezuela--Colombia's Reply to the Pan-American Conference at Mexico City.

(Special Cable to Pittsburgh Gazette.)
(Copyright, 1901, by New York Herald Co.)

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA, Nov. 11.—The Colombian government has accepted the proffered mediation of Chile to settle the troubles between this republic and Venezuela. The same offer previously had been accepted by Venezuela.

In behalf of his government, Senor Harboso cabled to President Castro the same offer.

Acting President Marroquin has replied to the resolution of the Pan-American congress, which appealed to Colombia to make a peaceful settlement of the difficulties with President Castro's government. Dr. Marroquin said in reply that Colombia desires to have an amicable settlement with Venezuela. The Colombian government prefers to be on cordial terms with Venezuela, and its grievances are entirely against President Castro's government.

As a protection, Colombia now has 16,000 newly-armed soldiers on the Venezuelan frontier.

The Colombian minister of foreign affairs today said in an interview that the Ecuadorian government has officially announced that it would preserve neutrality in reference to the internal conflict in Colombia, and would also adopt the same attitude in case of Colombia becoming involved in an international war.

RESCUED THE SUN.

Chinese Officials Appease the Gods Which Caused a Partial Eclipse.

PEKIN, Nov. 11.—In conformity with a notice which the foreign office sent to the legations, all the Chinese officials in the capital gathered today at the board of rites to "rescue the sun," which was suffering from a partial eclipse.

The rescue was accomplished by prostrations, the burning of incense and the beating of drums. A few foreigners for the first time in history were permitted to witness the ceremony.

CABLED BREVITIES.

Andrew Carnegie has given £10,000 for the erection of a free library at Hawaick, Scotland.

When Cecil Rhodes arrived in Verona, Italy, he found the walls plastered with placards which bore the sentence, "Vive Boers."

Dr. Nansen, the arctic explorer, is negotiating for the institution of a great biological research in northern waters, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, England, Holland, Germany and Russia to take part.

Blina Frenki, of a suburb of Warsaw, has been arrested for doing a retail trade in devils. Frau Frenki announced she was in close touch with satan, who put an unlimited number of devils at her disposal.

At Kamenity, in the Austrian province of Grodno, the Jewish cemetery recently became filled and the sanitary authorities prohibited further burials. The Hebrews applied for permission to open a cemetery in the country. The authorities refused on the ground that the law prohibits Hebrews from settling outside the towns and the cemetery would be a settlement of Hebrews, they held.

Needs More Clerks—At the meeting of the finance committee of the Allegheny councils last night Controller Brown asked for an additional clerk at a salary of $1,200 a year. He also asked for an increase in salary of $300 a year for each of the clerks in his office on account of the extra work made necessary by the abolition of the auditor's office.

Davis Goes to Kansas—W. C. Davis, vice president of the Fourth district of the Amalgamated association, with headquarters in Chicago, has resigned his position to become superintendent of a coal mine at Weir City, Kan. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Strange Death of Aged Woman—An old, white-haired woman, who seemed to be fully 75 years, fell over in a faint in an Avalon street car bound for the city, in Sandusky street, Allegheny, at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. She was carried into Perry Charles' livery barn, Church and Sandusky streets, where she died in a few minutes. At midnight her identity had not been discovered. She was fairly well dressed in black. Heart disease is supposed to have caused death. The body is at the morgue.

Purdee, an engineer formerly employed by the Harbison-Walker Company, at the West Homestead brick works, was sent to jail last night by Alderman John Groetzinger to await a hearing on a charge of malicious mischief made by Ralph Harbison. Hit at a Christening—Stanley Demont, attended a Polish christening in McKees Rocks on Sunday, and, as a result, his skull is fractured, and he is in a critical condition at the McKees Rocks hospital. The christening was at the home of John Durroski in Plum alley, and was largely attended. Liquid libations to Cupid and the new stranger were frequent, and then the usual row started. Demont was struck on the head with a dish, and then the ambulance removed him from the scene of the festivities to the hospital.

Physicians Interested—Mrs. Richard Buck, the woman with the broken neck, had a decided turn for the worse yesterday at the McKeesport hospital, but Dr. Theodore Nason, who has charge of her case, does not fear any serious consequences. Mrs. Buck was injured October 16 by being thrown from a buggy by a runaway horse. Immediately after her reception at the hospital the attending physicians decided that her death was but a matter of a few hours. To their surprise, however, she rallied and will probably recover.

Autopsy Ordered—Deputy Coroner Charles Bender went to Oakmont yesterday and after investigation ordered an autopsy on the body of the woman found on the bank of the Allegheny river Sunday morning. The woman was identified as Sarah Buchanan, 40 years old, of 715 Ivy street, Pittsburgh. The inquest will be held today. Bishop Fowler to Speak—The members of the Men's club of Christ Methodist Episcopal church will listen tonight to an address by Bishop C. H. Fowler, who has chosen for his subject "Some Elements of Success." It will be the usual monthly meeting of the club, which was organized about a year ago, not so much along religious lines, as for the purpose of promoting good-fellowship among the men of the church and congregation. The presence in the city of Bishop Fowler to attend the missionary committee meeting this week has made him available as the speaker this evening, and it is certain that a large attendance will greet him. He is one of the most prominent divines in the Methodist Episcopal church, and a fine orator, so that a treat is in store for all who hear him tonight. There will be music and refreshments as usual.

CLERGYMAN'S CHILDREN.

Coffee Being Replaced by Postum Food Coffee.

"I am the wife of a minister. About three years ago a warm friend, an exemplary mother and the conscientious wife of a minister, asked me if I had ever tried giving up coffee and using the Postum Food Coffee. I had been telling her of my excessive nervousness and ill-health. She said: 'We drink nothing else for breakfast but Postum Food Coffee, and it is a delight and a comfort to have something that we do not have to refuse the children when they ask for it.'

"I was surprised that she would permit the children to drink any kind of coffee, but she explained that it was a most healthful beverage, and that the children thrived on it. A very little thought convinced me that for brainwork, one should not rely upon a stimulant such as coffee is, but should have food and the very best of food.

"My first trial of Postum was a failure. The maid of all work brought it to the table, lukewarm, weak, and altogether lacking in character. We were in despair, but decided on one more trial. At the second trial, we faithfully followed the directions, used four teaspoonsful to the pint of water, let it boil full fifteen minutes after the real boiling began, and served it with rich cream. It was delicious and we were all won.

"I have since sung the praises of Postum Food Coffee on many, many occasions and have induced numbers of friends to abandon coffee and use Postum, with remarkable results. The wife of a college professor said to me a short time ago that nothing had ever produced so marked a change in her husband's health as the leaving off of coffee and the use of Postum Food Coffee." Edith Smith Davis, Appleton, Wis.

Resolutions Were Passed, Condemning E. M. Bigelow and Charging Him With Delaying Work on Filtration Plans.

DIRECTOR'S REPLY WAS A SCORNFUL DENIAL

Characterized Report of Filtration Committee, Which Criticized Him, as "a Pack of Lies"—Summoned Before Select Council, to Explain, He Was Cut Short by Objections. "Dead Horse" Issue Revived.

The Flinn obstructionists in councils yesterday began a general attack upon Director E. M. Bigelow to avert suspicion from themselves and to discredit the city administration, if possible, in the hope of influencing Gov. Stone to remove Recorder Brown and restore their faction to power.

By a pre-arranged plan, resolutions were introduced and passed in both branches of councils censuring the director of public works for the delay in commencing the work on the filtration plant, notwithstanding the fact that Director Bigelow a few weeks ago urged councils to pass the necessary ordinances so he might advertise for bids.

Vicious charges were preferred against Director Bigelow by the filtration committee in its report to the select branch and fulsome praise bestowed upon former Director George W. Wilson. The report blamed Director Bigelow with retarding the preparation of the plans for the filtration plant in every possible manner and credited George W. Wilson for expediting the work with all possible dispatch.

The city patriarchs did not stop here in their mad efforts to manufacture campaign material. They proceeded to revive the "dead horse" issue, refusing to pay for horses bought in an emergency for the department of public works, at the same time inconsistently declaring the streets of the city to be in a deplorable condition and holding Director Bigelow responsible.

Second Attack Denounced.

Select Councilman John Benz, who had voted for the first resolution censuring Mr. Bigelow, refused to join in the second attack upon the director. He called attention to the fact that select council had approved a contract let in a similar manner by former Director J. O. Brown after the contract had been vetoed by the recorder. Mr. Benz said select council wanted to reverse its action and disapprove a purchase made by Director Bigelow under exactly the same conditions. Mr. Benz told his colleagues that they could not conscientiously or consistently ask him to do this one week and then to do directly opposite the following week.

Mr. Benz's conscientious scruples made no impression upon his associates, although Councilman George S. Fleming, a Democrat, reinforced the demand that Mr. Bigelow be accorded fair play and not hindered in conducting his department.

Director Bigelow appeared before the hostile upper branch in response to the request of some of the members, who wanted to interrogate him regarding the accusations brought in the report of the filtration committee.

Bigelow Enters a Denial.

Director Bigelow began by saying it was his predecessor, George W. Wilson, and not himself, that had suspended work on the filtration plans. Several Flinn members jumped to their feet and objected to Mr. Bigelow continuing.

Mr. Bigelow thereupon concluded by characterizing the report of the committee as "a pack of lies" and walked out of the council chamber.

Mr. Bigelow afterward made a statement concerning the filtration committee's report. "The report itself does not concern me," said Mr. Bigelow, "for no matter what the facts are, the report would have been the same. The facts, however, are these: On April 5, while Mr. Wilson was director, Mr. Hazen, the consulting engineer, was ordered to stop work. From that time until July 21 there was no work done.

"Mr. Wilson never approved any plan of any kind during the entire time he was in office. On July 23 Mr. Hazen and Mr. Miller, the resident engineer, approved the plans for the filtration beds and the receiving basin. On April 1 I appointed Mr. Knowles as resident engineer with the approval of Mr. Hazen. Mr. Knowles has been working every day and night since, with a competent force of men, getting the plans ready.

All Possible Dispatch Used.

"If the plans and specifications were ready while Mr. Wilson was in office, as the committee says, why did he not let the contracts?" added Mr. Bigelow. "If have been working with all possible dispatch to get the plans ready, and when they are completed the bids will be advertised for. I am advised by the city solicitor, however, that the contracts will have to be let together.

"It is not true," said Mr. Bigelow, "that I loaned Lovegrove to the elevated railway company. Lovegrove was loaned by Mr. Miller to Mr. Swennson, chief engineer of the elevated company, and was paid by the company.

"It is a fact that practically little work was done on the plans in all the time that Mr. Wilson was director. The plans for the pumping station, the pumps, the engines, the intake pipes, the pure water reservoir and for the pipes across the river were none of them touched by Mr. Wilson and have been made since I went into office on June 11."

The fact that an attack was to be made on Director Bigelow was well known and a good sized lobby had gathered when select council was called to order.

There was little delay in starting, for as soon as the call of the wards was over Councilman John Upperman presented the report of the filtration committee. It opened with a report from the sub-committee appointed Saturday.

The Committee's Report.

The report stated that George W. Wilson, former director of the department of public works, was removed from office by the recorder on June 11, 1901; that prior to his removal he had had a competent corps of engineers working industriously and continuously on the filtration plans.

That on June 11 E. M. Bigelow was appointed director, vice Wilson removed. That on June 11 Resident Engineer Miller visited Director Bigelow and reported that sixty per cent of the plans and sixty per cent of the specifications were ready, approved by Engineer Hazen and were ready for Mr. Bigelow's approval, and for advertising to this extent. The river inlet, two sedimentation basins, twenty-five filtration beds, the pipeage and valves and all other appliances leading down to the clean water basin.

That from June 11 until he was removed on August 1 Mr. Miller urged Mr. Bigelow to approve these plans and advertise for bids.

Neglect Was Charged.

That the statements and testimony show that Mr. Bigelow had personal knowledge of the facts stated above and that he neglected and refused to visit the office of Mr. Miller or approve the plans or do anything toward advertising for proposals.

That on June 25, notwithstanding the necessity for haste, Mr. Bigelow "loaned" Engineer Lovegrove to the elevated railroad syndicate, and Mr. Lovegrove did no work for the city until August 1.

That Mr. Lovegrove says that from the time he was loaned until he returned to the city's employ and up to the present time no progress has been made on the plans except some changes which he believes to be unnecessary.

That former Director Wilson pushed and expedited the work.

That Director Bigelow, from June 11 to August 1, never inspected the plans or gave any advice or assistance to Mr. Miller. Since August 1 he failed to give the committee any information except that the plans would probably be completed in thirty days.

That Consulting Engineer Hazen wrote a letter, now on file, saying that sixty per cent of the work was completed on June 11.

The sub-committee concluded its report with the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the said Edward M. Bigelow, director, as aforesaid, is hereby ordered to forthwith produce and furnish, within ten (10) days, to the committee on filtration of the city of Pittsburgh, for their approval, all the plans and specifications for the work lying north of the West Penn railroad; and it is further

Resolved, That the said Edward M. Bigelow is directed to forthwith proceed with due diligence and haste, to the completion of the balance of the plans and specifications for the said filtration improvement and submit the same to the filtration committee on or before Monday, December 2, 1901.

Fight on the Resolutions.

Mr. Upperman moved the adoption of the resolutions. Mr. Thorn offered an amendment providing that a copy of the resolutions and report be sent to the recorder. Mr. Upperman accepted this.

Mr. Hermes wanted to hear from Director Bigelow, and he was sent for. President Lambie explained the situation, and having invited Mr. Bigelow to a seat had the clerk read the report and resolutions that the director might be able to answer questions.

While the long report was read Director Bigelow sat with a smile on his face and listened. When the clerk finished he stepped forward to the clerk's desk and Mr. Barry asked him:

"Is it true that you are responsible for the delay?"

"No, sir," replied Mr. Bigelow.

"Have operations been suspended?"

"Operations," said Mr. Bigelow, "were suspended on April 5, and no work was done from that time until I took charge. No plans were presented or work done until July 26. Mr. Wilson never approved a plan or a scrap of paper of any kind."

Mr. Upperman broke in with an objection. Mr. Bigelow was present at the committee meeting, he said, and admitted that work was done.

Mr. Bigelow had faced the speaker. As he caught his meaning he shot one hand out and cried: "Hold on; that is not so."

Mr. Barry, Mr. Upperman and Mr. Murphy were trying to make themselves heard, and Mr. Bigelow, still smiling, walked across the chamber toward the door.

"It Is a Pack of Lies."

As he approached he turned toward the members, and with a sweep of his hat he said: "Your report is a pack of lies," and with that walked out.

After some warm remarks by members of council the discussion closed. The roll was called on the resolutions. They were adopted, 26 ayes to 10 nays. The vote stood:

Ayes—Messrs. Atkinson, Benz, Clark, Diehl, Fritz, Hitchcock, Johnston, Morgan, Murphy, Muth, Nash, Pedder, Piatt, Rohrbaugh, Ruhlandt, Sankey, Schneider, Shenkel, Stewart, Thorn, Upperman, Vincent, Voskamp, Wainwright, Wilson, Zahnlser and President Lambie—26.

Noes—Messrs. Barry, Flattel, Fleming, Gallagher, Geary, Hermes, Jones, Kearns, Paul and Perry—10.

Mr. Benz moved to adjourn, but his motion was lost, the vote standing 14 to 22.

Mr. Clark said he had a report from the "committee on dead horses." He read a lengthy report on the purchase of five horses, his reference to the dead ones being based on Mr. Barry's statement that three had already died. This, however, proves not to have been the case. The report concluded with "whether dead or alive, the committee finds Director Bigelow purchased these five horses contrary to law."

The motion to indefinitely postpone the ordinance, authorizing payment for the horses, was passed by a vote of 25 to 11.

Common Council Waited.

Common council was waiting for the transmission of the filtration report from select branch. It rushed through routine business and took a recess at 3:30 o'clock for 30 minutes. When it reconvened the papers submitted by the filtration committee were reported from select council, together with a resolution sent over for concurrence by the other body.

When the report of the filtration committee was read R. H. Douglas objected to receiving and filing it, claiming the paper had no title. President McCandless decided against Mr. Douglas' point of order and the latter appealed.

The appeal was lost, the vote being 26 to 19. The members voted as follows:

Ayes: Messrs. Anderson, Armstrong, Bingham, Donley, Dubarry, Jones, Kohne, Leslie, Lewis, Magee, Mierswa, Moore, McLain, McTighe, Rodgers, Rusch, Swartzweider, Semmelroch, Sheenan, Sparr, Spine, Stockdale, Stonerod, Vaux, Wellinger and Zollinger. Total 26.

Noes: Messrs. Beckert, Cavett, C. S. Crawford, J. L. Crawford, Culbertson, Delaney, Dieterle, Douglas, Hedderton, Hughes, Jack, Kramer, McNeil, Siebert, Sterrett, Walls, Wightman, Zacharias and Zenger. Total 19.

Hump Removal Begun.

The ordinance for the widening of High street, or Sixth avenue, from Grant to Diamond streets, was finally passed. This is to be the first step in the removal of the hump. The thoroughfare will be changed from a 40 to a 60 foot street, 20 feet being taken off the lower side. Other ordinances passed finally were: For the grading, paving and curbing of Virginia avenue; establishing the grade of Fletcher, Lyon, Salem, Fleuri, Anchor, Samoan, Fred and Paper alleys, Bay and Terra streets; for the location of Gist, Wilford and Conemaugh streets.

Christ Beckert, Jr., presented ordinances authorizing the payment of union wages to men employed in the parks and to painters and carpenters in the public works department. Ordinances were presented for the grading, paving and curbing of Schenley avenue, Meade street and Millvale avenue.

Mr. Magee presented an ordinance authorizing a contract to be made with the Mercy hospital for the care and treatment of infectious and contagious diseases at a cost of $5 a week for each bed or $2 a day for each bed when occupied. All these papers were referred to committees.

PLANNING FOR NEW RAILROAD

Surveys in Progress for a Line Between Monaca and Burgettstown.

MANY OFFICIAL CHANGES MADE

Present Line of the Pittsburgh and Western May Be Abandoned for the Old Brice Project—May Lower Demurrage Time Limit.

Either to construct new lines of its own or so to occupy the available rounds as to cut out all competitors, the Pennsylvania Company is making several surveys for lines between the Panhandle and the junction of the Beaver and Ohio rivers. Surveying corps have been working on lines down both Raccoon and Elkhorn creeks, and further surveys have been made recently along the south bank of the Ohio river above and below Wellsburg.

The survey down Raccoon creek leads to Burgettstown. If the line is intended for actual building at this time, its main purpose would be to carry coal from the Burgettstown district for the lakes and northwestern points. This would remove the necessity of sending the coal by way of the Panhandle to Pittsburgh and over the Ohio connecting bridge to the Fort Wayne road.

A line along the east bank of the Ohio from opposite East Liverpool, O., has been contemplated for many years. The Pennsylvania already has in the Cleveland & Pittsburgh a line on the west bank for much of the distance, and it is thought improbable that another purely Pennsylvania line would be built. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie also has surveys for that line, and if the road is ever constructed it is practically certain it will be owned jointly by the two systems, Pennsylvania and Vanderbilt.

One of the great expenses of the projected Burgettstown-Monaca line to connect with the Fort Wayne would be the necessary bridge over the Ohio near Monaca. The tracks of the Lake Erie would have to be given a 21-foot clearance and the result would be a heavy grade from the present tracks of the Fort Wayne, which are quite low.

Property owners are being approached at various points on the routes and options taken that will hinder materially any other line securing rights of way. Similar precautions are being taken, according to reports, along the old South Penn route, where it is thought the surveying parties are in the Pennsylvania employ. Most of this work is supposed to point directly to an attempt to choke off possible extensions of the aggressive and well financed Wabash line, now building into Pittsburgh.

New Official Changes.

In reorganizing the mechanical department of the Baltimore & Ohio to accord with the Pennsylvania plans, the title of mechanical superintendent held by J. N. Barr is changed to general superintendent of motive power for his successor, F. D. Casanave, an assistant. E. W. Wood of Baltimore, in charge of lines east of the Ohio river, and W. S. Haines of Newark, O., in charge of lines west of the Ohio river, receive the title of superintendent of motive power. S. B. Mason, whose office will be abolished, will receive the title of assistant to the general superintendent of motive power. It is expected that there will also be a superintendent of motive power with headquarters in this city when all the reorganization changes have taken place.

A. E. Mitchell, late mechanical superintendent of the Erie, is reported to have accepted a position with the mechanical department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

Stricter Demurrage Rules.

There is started among the Pittsburgh lines belonging to the Pittsburgh Car Service Association a movement either to increase the demurrage charge or to shorten the time limit for goods in Pittsburgh yards. The present time limit withohut penalty for the retention of consignments is 48 hours. After that $1 a day per car is charged for delays in unloading. Owing to the alleged notable slowness of Pittsburgh consignees in unloading cars, which railroad officials say is one of the greatest causes of the prevailing congestion of freight yards, the movement to reduce the time limit to 24 hours has met with considerable favor by the freight men. No action has been taken as yet by the car service association.

Rumored B. & O. Yard Purchases.

While lacking official confirmation the report was current yesterday that the Baltimore & Ohio is renewing its attempts of some years ago to buy the tract of land south of the main line in Glenwood yards. The property lies between the main line and the freight cut-off along the Monongahela and extends from the present shops to the bridge. Residences, for the most part small, occupy the greater portion of the ground. It is the natural place for the larger yards needed by the road. The terminal of the Wheeling division is at that point.

Moves 5,000 Cars a Day.

Almost heroic efforts are being made by the Pittsburgh railroads to handle the tremendous traffic that has swamped the lines for several weeks past. On Saturday and Sunday, by official reports, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie moved 10,377 cars. How acquitted itself on Monday, so that on both tracks there was an almost continuous procession of freight trains. Practically no mishaps occurred. About half of these cars were loaded. The average load is close upon 40 tons per car. This means 200,000 tons of freight were moved.

QUAY BACK OF THE RECORDER

MAJOR BROWN ASSURED THAT HE WOULD NOT BE REMOVED.

Why He Was Appointed By Gov. Stone—To Give the People of Pittsburgh a Good Administration—Alleged Harrisburg Agreement Emphatically Denied—Flinn Men Rapidly Losing Confidence.

Recorder A. M. Brown said yesterday that his administration has the support of Senator M. S. Quay, and that Senator Quay had assured him that he would not be removed, but would be allowed to serve out the term for which he had been appointed by Gov. Stone.

Recorder Brown said that this assurance was given him by Senator Quay soon after the removal of Director J. O. Brown and Solicitor Clarence Burleigh, and after the conference of the Flinn leaders with Gov. Stone at Atlantic City. It was also after the bringing out of the story that the governor had promised to remove the recorder, on or before November 15.

"Senator Quay called upon me while he was in Pittsburgh, and we discussed the matter," said the recorder. "The senator assured me positively that Gov. Stone would not remove me, and that I would serve out my term."

Recorder Brown was as confident as ever yesterday that the plans of his opponents to force him out of office will come to naught. He denied emphatically the statement published in anti-administration papers that an agreement was made at the Harrisburg conference when he was appointed recorder that he would be removed if he should dismiss Director J. O. Brown and City Solicitor Burleigh.

"If any such agreement was made, I was not a party to it, and had no knowledge of it," declared the recorder. "When I went to Philadelphia to see the governor he told me, in the presence of another, his reasons for appointing me. He said he appointed me because he thought I would give the people of Pittsburgh a good administration. He emphasized the fact that he tendered the office without conditions.

"Director Brown was chosen chairman of the Republican city committee upon the solemn promise that he would cast aside Flinn and work to make councils subordinate to the policy of the city administration," said the recorder. "Director Brown assured me that he was in favor of reform and had enough of Flinn. It was not long, however, before I learned that he was trying to deceive me. When any important matter came up in councils he was always absent, either out of the city or hidden from sight.

"After the council meetings he would appear with apologies and excuses for his absence. I discovered that he was not only failing to keep his pledges, but was actually doing his best to injure me. The discharge of a policeman is one instance. He dismissed an officer, telling the officer that he did so upon my orders. I learned this when the officer called and asked me to reinstate him."

The Flinnites were short on confidence yesterday. The statement of Senator Quay that he was opposed to the removal of Director Brown was a deadly blow. Among the Flinn councilmen the writer found at least a half dozen who said:

"I am satisfied the recorder will not be removed."

The Flinn lieutenants had a new story yesterday. They say that their leader is able to deliver Allegheny, Westmoreland and Mercer counties to the governor if he removes the recorder. He is credited with bossing Westmoreland because he has a stone quarry out there employing about 300 men who can be voted any way he wants to. Senator Flinn denies that he can deliver them in a bunch at will. His friends claim that through his 3,500 employes at the Sharon steel plant, Mercer can be swung to suit the senator. There will be a new story today.

John Ennis, the Democratic politician, does not believe that Stone will remove Brown. He offers to back his opinion with a wager of $1,000.

W. W. Mechling, president of Munhall council, has announced his candidacy at the Republican primaries for assemblyman in the Sixth district. He will oppose Robert McWhinney of Homestead, who is a candidate for re-election.

BIG BREWERY ADDITION.

Stock House to Cost $200,000 to Be Erected at the Iron City Plant of Pittsburgh Brewing Company.

The Pittsburgh Brewing Company has determined to erect a great stock house, to cost $200,000, in connection with its Iron City brewery plant, at Thirty-third street and Liberty avenue. The plant will have storage capacity for 100,000 barrels of beer. Otto C. Wolf, the Philadelphia architect, was yesterday directed to hasten the preparation of plans and to secure the bids. The management expects to have the new plant ready for use next spring.

In connection with the Iron City plant work is going forward rapidly on the erection of a $150,000 bottling house. This is expected to be ready for use about the first of the new year. The stock house will be erected on ground already held.

The new board of directors of the company met yesterday and considered a number of other projects for extending operations. The company has now a surplus of over $1,200,000, and the most advantageous use of this was considered. A conservative element of the directors prevailed and President F. W. Mueller said after the meeting that the major portion of the surplus would be retained for any contingencies which may arise. The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred and 1 per cent on the common stock.

WILL ACCEPT THE GIFT.

Wilkinsburg Council Afraid Mr. Carnegie Will Withdraw Library Offer.

Wilkinsburg's proposed Carnegie library scheme has experienced a boom since the arrival of Mr. Carnegie in the city. At a meeting of council last night a special committee representing the citizens of the town made an appeal for the passage of the ordinance proposed over a year ago.

Mr. Carnegie offered the town $50,000 for the purpose of establishing a library, but the offer was not accepted, as it was hoped that an additional $50,000 would be given. It is feared that unless something is done immediately Mr. Carnegie will withdraw his offer. The ordinance accepting Mr. Carnegie's offer will be up for final passage at the next regular meeting. A committee of council was appointed to work with the citizens' committee in securing a site for the proposed building.

GOOD MEN NEEDED IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman Outlines the Work as It Should Be.

J. Wilbur Chapman, the evangelist, was the principal speaker at the evening session of the Presbyterial Sabbath School Institute, held yesterday in the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Chapman made one of his characteristic, straightforward addresses; not flowery or dramatic, but sympathetic and attractive. His subject was "Requisites for Sabbath School Workers."

Upon his arrival in the city he was met by William C. Tilley and taken to the First church, where he conferred with the presbyterial committee on the proposed evangelistic work in Pittsburgh. He promptly outlined the work of the convention, which will be held during the first week in December in the Second Presbyterian church and which will inaugurate a big movement for a revival of religious interest throughout the community.

At last night's meeting, after the musical program was concluded, Mr. Tilley introduced Dr. Chapman, who referred to the action of the general assembly in appointing a committee to consider plans for a widespread evangelistic movement. He said in part: "As a result of this action, tonight there are being held in many cities meetings where the Word is being preached, and the signs are very encouraging. Never since I can remember have there been such signs of encouragement in respect to a revival of religion. Hundreds in different parts of the country are giving their hearts to Christ."

Turning to his theme of the Sunday school, Dr. Chapman said:

"No Sunday school is successful unless the superintendent is a man of God. I care not what his mental capacity or his executive ability, he is a failure unless his heart is with the work for God. He ought to be a man who can pass the judgment of the boys, not be like one of whom a Sunday school boy was asked to express an opinion, and said: 'I don't like him, for when he is added up, there is nothing to carry.'

We need teachers, likewise, who will come up to the ideal of their boys and girls. Sunday school teachers, if you are not reminding your pupils of Christ, if you are not impressing them by your lives with the principles that He taught, your work is not complete. Your duty is not done. Another element may be. The boy and the girl should find in the Sunday school teacher that which will supplement what is lacking in the impression of religion found in the home.

The Sunday school teacher should come under the class designated in Scripture as 'a peculiar people.' This does not mean that they are to be secret, or outlandish. The word 'a peculiar people' may involve three meanings: First, 'a purchased people.' Christ must be in you. I think the great fault of the church members of to-day is not that they sin, but that they do not immediately repent and confess their sins. I have no belief in the man who says he can keep from sinning naturally by his will power. He must have a higher power to help him. And I want to say, especially to the young people, that you will be successful in overcoming the evil that is in you just so far as you allow Christ to take possession of you.

Then, again, the phrase literally means a peculiar people. Is there anything in this world that the church so much needs to-day as peculiar people—people who are not afraid to live above the common people who are better than the average? I believe that it is possible for a man to so live in his home that his children will think that if there is anyone in the world like Christ, it is their father; for a Sunday school teacher to so live that his pupils will see in him a reflection of Christ is being peculiar, and is the kind of peculiar people we need. If there is one single thing in your life that you have held back from God take your hands off it tonight and let God take it.

In the afternoon a successful meeting was held. Every one of the 80 schools in the presbytery was represented, 200 delegates being present. Rev. John Scott and other persons attended also. President Thomas E. Orr presided over the meeting.

The president conducted a round table on "The Difficulties of Sunday School Workers." The subject was divided into four topics, viz: "The Place We Occupy," "The difficulties In Ourselves," "The Difficulties In Our Schools," "The Difficulties In Our Times." Several six-minute talks were made on these topics.

Dr. Chapman outlined his plan for the December convention to the local committee. At the opening meeting Dr. Chapman will preside and give a brief statement of what is being done in the Presbyterian churches all over the United States. In the morning at 9 o'clock the meeting will be for the theological students, and at 10 o'clock an open meeting will be held, at which time the Revs. Drs. Balcom Shaw, D. F. Carson and John Converse will speak. In the afternoons the opening meetings will be for students and following these meetings for the public will be meetings of an evangelistic nature. At 5 p. m. the second day a meeting for the elders will be held, which will be addressed by the Rev. Mr. Converse. Dr. Chapman may conduct meetings in Wilkinsburg during the winter.

BISHOPS PLEAD FOR BLACK MAN

Eloquent Addresses at Meeting of Freedmen's Aid Society.

GRAPHIC TALES FROM EARLY HISTORY

Many Prominent Divines Tell of the Struggle Which the Society Has Had from the Beginning—Roosevelt's Action Supported.

The business session of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Educational society began yesterday morning in Calvary Methodist church, Allegheny, and was continued through the afternoon. In the evening a popular mass meeting was held in the same church.

After the opening at 9:30 a. m. with devotional exercises the Rev. Dr. Edward J. Knox, presiding elder of the Allegheny district of the Pittsburgh conference, welcomed the visitors. Bishop Cyrus D. Foss responded to the welcome.

The report of the treasurer of the society, H. C. Jennings, was presented and adopted.

Secretary M. C. B. Mason read reports on the condition of several schools managed by the society. He reported that "a generous Presbyterian layman of Beaver, Pa.," has given $5,000 to build a hall of science at Athens, Ga.

The remainder of the morning session was taken up with short addresses by the bishops. Bishop John M. Walden, who recently became well known to the people of Western Pennsylvania by presiding over the deliberations of the annual Pittsburgh conference held in October at Beaver Falls, spoke of a recent trip made through the south. Bishop D. A. Goodsell also spoke.

Bishop Earl Cranston said that the society was organized in Cincinnati, where it had to encounter all the prejudice of Kentucky, whose hostile influence had been exercised against it.

Bishop Henry W. Warren spoke on the wonderful possibilities of intellectual development for the black people.

Bishop C. H. Fowler made the closing address of the morning and commended the good work of the society.

At 2 o'clock the afternoon session was called to order, Bishop D. A. Goodsell, D. D., presiding. The main theme of the afternoon was the question of the total amount of the appropriation for the schools for next year. The board of managers asked in their report that $131,075 be appropriated, these figures being based upon careful estimates of last year's expenses.

As last year's available funds for the purpose amounted to only $113,500, some members of the society thought that the appropriations for this year should not exceed that amount. It was therefore moved that the amount of the appropriation be $113,500. This brought out a lively discussion, in which most of the prominent members of the society took part.

Bishop Earl Cranston moved that the committee on special appropriations be discharged and their work be turned over to the general committee on appropriations. The motion was carried and after adjournment the general committee met to consider the claims of the various institutions, item by item.

Speeches were made by Bishop Walden, Bishop Foss, Dr. John Pearson, Dr. Levi Gilbert, Bishop Fowler, Dr. H. G. Jackson, Dr. W. F. Boyd, Dr. M. C. B. Mason and others. Finally Bishop E. G. Andrews solved the problem by offering as a substitute for previous motions to fix the appropriation at the figures recommended by the board of managers, namely, $131,075. The substitute was accepted and the motion carried.

Bishop Fowler made a speech advocating the appointment of two salaried agents of the society whose business should be to go among the churches and try to raise more money for the work. This sentiment was applauded. No definite action was taken yesterday on this question, but this morning it is probable that the authorization will be made.

Just before adjourning the afternoon session Bishop Goodsell appointed a committee to consider the relationship existing between Morgan college with the affiliated schools and the Freedmen's Aid society. The committee is composed of the following persons: Bishops Walden and Cranston, the Revs. R. S. Rust, L. Gilbert, M. C. B. Mason, S. W. Johann and H. J. Monroe.

The evening was given up to a mass meeting at the Christ church. A large crowd assembled, filling the church and requiring the placing of chairs in the aisles. The meeting was called to order by the Rev. Dr. R. S. Rust. The Rev. Dr. H. A. Monroe of Philadelphia was introduced as the orator of the evening on the "Black Man of the South." Dr. Monroe has long been a worker in the Freedmen's Aid society.

In his talk he stated that his society is today responsible for the greater amount of intelligent colored men of the United States, and that it had been born for the purpose of upraising the colored man, to teach them that they are beyond the age that compelled them to look no further than the auction block, that they must now strive to raise themselves to the standard of a nobler race. Touching upon the position President Roosevelt has taken in regard to the negro, he stated that it is but a matter of time when the negro question would become national instead of being limited to the south alone. The feeling against the negro was steadily growing stronger in the north and the northern negro will soon have to face the same question as those of the south.

The Rev. Dr. A. P. Camphor, president of the West African college at Monrovia, Africa, was introduced to the assemblage at 9 o'clock. Dr. Camphor received his education at the hands of this society in the New Orleans university. His address was confined to the successes of the society in Africa and of the large increase of pupils at his college during the past five years.

Bishop J. W. Hamilton of Boston addressed the audience upon the negro question of the day.

Many Preachers Wanted.

The Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Protestant church is suffering from a dearth of pastors. The Rev. W. H. Gladden, president of the conference, said yesterday that he has been embarrassed for some time to find ministers to supply some of the pulpits of the conference. There are about 20 vacant pulpits, and eight or ten ministers are needed. Most of the churches that are without pastors are small, and two or more could be taken care of by one preacher.

Among the Methodist Protestant churches that are in need of preachers are the following: In Greene county, Bethel circuit, Fairview and Long Run; in Butler county, Deer Creek; in Indiana county, Cherry Tree circuit; in Clearfield county, Mt. Zion circuit; in Crawford county, Turnersville; in Trumbull county, O., Trumbull circuit.

George I. Whitney and Party of Pittsburghers Return from Their Southern Trip.

George I. Whitney and the party of Pittsburghers who have been on an inspection of industrial developments in the south returned to Pittsburgh yesterday. The main point of interest was Gold Hill, N. C., where the Whitney Reduction Company, capitalized at $10,000,000, is developing 1,500 acres of gold mining property.

The company has recently expended about $250,000 in development work in this field. The Whitney syndicate is arranging to erect a $2,000,000 electric power plant in the industrial center of North Carolina. The syndicate has secured 12 miles of frontage along both sides of the Yadkin river for this enterprise.

During the trip George I. Whitney was presented with a massive loving cup of silver, lined with gold. Besides an appropriate inscription, the names of the following participants in the gift are engraved on the cup: Ralph Baggaley, J. O. Baglin, J. E. Barnett, J. M. Bell, R. H. Boggs, A. H. Boyden, W. # GAINED EIGHT POUNDS A DAY.

Victim of Dropsy Killed by Three Weeks of the Disease.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Charles Hoffman, a wealthy farmer living near Yokenury, was buried yesterday. Hoffman was stricken with dropsy three weeks ago and gained eight pounds a day up to the time of his death four days ago. When stricken Hoffman weighed 140 pounds, and at the time of his death he weighed 220 pounds.

Before he died he said he never was almost up to his throat and could be seen pulsating. Hoffman appeared cheerful and spent the greater part of his time in sleeping. He was 65 years old.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The Mail and Express says: The delay in the announcement of the terms of the Northern Pacific settlement, it was learned today, is due to the inability so far to agree upon the details for the control of the Burlington and the surrender of Northern Pacific preferred stock owned by the Union Pacific.

STOPPED THE WORK ON A TROLLEY LINE

Mellon's Electric Road to Greensburg Tied Up by Injunction.

The failure of the Mellons to secure a franchise for 122 feet of State street in Wilmerding may indefinitely prevent rapid transit between Pittsburgh and Greensburg.

This connecting link on the trolley line is an absolute necessity. The courts have restrained the traction magnates from it. The only outlet is through private land in Patton township, and the man who owns that is not disposed to have a trolley running through his lot.

The Mellons are pushing their line through to Pitcairn. In Wilmerding councils gave permission to lay tracks over a number of streets. The State street ordinance allows the Monongahela Traction Company to use the through fare to its intersection with Watkins avenue.

From the intersection of Watkins, State street extends 122 feet to the borough line. For this stretch, the frontage of which is owned by August Nied, the claim is made that councils did not grant a franchise. Mr. Nied, through his attorneys, Murphy & Hosack, yesterday asked the courts to restrain the company and Booth & Flinn, contractors, from grading, laying tracks or operating cars in this part of the street. The temporary injunction was issued and work stopped. There will be a hearing Thursday.

It may be difficult for the traction company to get the franchise. Wilmerding councilmen are said to be rather unfriendly toward the Mellons.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 11.—The bout last night between "Young Peter Jackson" and Jimmy Handler was stopped by the police in the eighteenth round and was declared a draw. When the police stopped Jackson was hammering Handler hard and it was evident the latter would have been beaten to a stupor or so if the contest had continued.

TWELVE PAGES.

In Aid of the Negroes.

The Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education society of the Methodist Episcopal church, now holding a conference in this community, is one of the agencies which have for their object the elevation of the negroes of the southern states. These agencies are too few, for the work to be done is great, and yet the people of the north have sent many earnest men and women to labor in the south since the close of the war, and have spent large sums of money in the maintenance of schools.

As to the necessity for educating the negroes, intelligent opinion is unanimous, and the opinion regarding the white man's duty ought to be unanimous also. It was the white man who enslaved his black brother and made him a human chattel, and it was also the white man who emancipated him. With freedom comes the duty of educating him to perform the duties of a free man. There is much truth in Bishop Foss' declaration that "there is no negro problem; that it is the problem of humanity and of the nation."

The presence in Pittsburgh of the bishops and other leaders of this movement will rearouse interest in the cause they represent. It is encouraging to learn that good results have followed the exertions of the society, and that contributions to its fund are being received from persons of wealth who believe that the black man should be given a chance to become an intelligent American citizen.

A Filtration Chip.

Undoubtedly Director Bigelow will proceed no less expeditiously with the filtration plans than if there had been no attack made upon him. The resolutions of the filtration committee censuring and directing him form an interesting addition to filtration literature. They are well written and so directly to the point that the chip on the shoulder may be easily observed without the aid of glasses. The disposition to make the filtration plans a bone of contention may be in the interest of some one, but it is in direct opposition to the interests of the people. We would be glad to see competition between councils and the executive branch of the city government to expedite the filtration project, and therefore sincerely regret the too evident disposition to cause further delay by quarreling. This is a great public improvement, for which the people have voted the money, and the public interest should be placed ahead of everything else. If the gentlemen who censure Director Bigelow and issue orders to him think to arouse his resentment to a pitch that will cause him to hold back his work they are making a mistake. There will be no delay that is not necessary.

The Beginning of the End.

According to advices from Samar the finish of the insurrection on that island is in sight. The main body of the insurgents is hurrying northward suffering greatly from hunger, many bolomen have surrendered, and Lukban's proclamation of death for all who yield is the only thing that prevents general submission to American authority.

When the United States forces adopted vigorous measures in dealing with the recalcitrants of Samar the end was foreseen, but the rebellion is being crushed much sooner than was generally expected. The recent defeats of the rebels, capture of their supplies and burning of their places of rendezvous have had the natural effect of discouraging them and hastening the restoration of peace and order. The fear aroused among the natives by Lukban's proclamation will cause more activity in the pursuit of that mischief-maker, and it is a reasonable presumption that he will soon be brought in, dead or alive, preferably in the former condition. The rebellious natives of Samar have nobody but themselves to blame for their present plight.

No Trouble Expected.

If the London newspapers that have discussed the speech of Senator Lodge at Boston on Saturday last reflect in any degree the feeling of the English government on the question of an American waterway through the Isthmus of Panama there need be little fear of friction in that quarter over the terms of the new treaty, no matter how exacting the demands of this government may be. England, according to the most recent sentiment expressed on the subject, looks with great complacency upon the purpose of the United States to maintain rigidly the spirit of the Monroe doctrine, nor does the fact that we are building a great navy to uphold it disturb the English mind. It is felt that a great American navy will mean peace for the American continent, and this will include protection for that part of the British empire included in America and which is not affected by the Monroe doctrine.

England doubtless feels that the future holds quite enough trouble for her without inviting friction between the governments allied by common speech and tastes. Having decided to yield all the points involved in the construction of an isthmian canal and to keep peace at all hazards, it is quite natural that our naval growth is more a source of comfort and gratification than reason for alarm or jealousy. The time may come when England will need an ally, and if that ally shall be found with increased and growing naval power the better it will be for England.

A Moral Blight.

We present this morning a number of statements from persons who own property in the vicinity of the gambling dens and speakeasies that have caused so much complaint among decent people in Allegheny. The story of one is very much like the story of another, and they might be multiplied many times over. Property values have been seriously affected in proximity to the playgrounds of vice, for the reason that the surrounding atmosphere is permeated with moral poison. Depreciation of realty values is not, however, the thing The Gazette complains of. It is cited merely to call attention to the cause of which it is but one effect. It is not the worst effect, but it is one of the most tangible and noticeable. Values are banefully affected because the neighborhood is bad. It contains things that are detrimental to the moral health. Men have been permitted to make openings that lead directly to that place the way to which is paved with good intentions. The fumes therefrom carry death. That is why the region is shunned and property falls in value. These dens should be closed, not for the purpose of restoring property values, but to save the people.

Men for the Navy.

The opening of a recruiting office for the United States navy in Pittsburgh is evidence of the needs of the new navy and of the determination of the government to obtain men for the warships. The navy is to be enlarged by the addition of something like 40 ships, of all grades, if present plans are carried out. This large number of vessels will require a much larger number of men than have served in the navy at any time since the close of the war. Already there is complaint of a scarcity of recruits to man the vessels now in commission. It is wise, therefore, to increase the number of recruiting stations and to offer facilities for enlistment.

There is not the incentive to become sailors or soldiers in times of peace that there is in war times, and the military and naval service naturally finds it more difficult to attract young men in good times than in a period of business depression. The present is a time when employment is easy to find and when young men do not need to enlist in order to get something to do. Notwithstanding these circumstances, the applicant for enlistment must possess certain qualifications. The standard is high, and there is no indication that it will be reduced.

The life of a man-of-war's-man offers many attractions. It affords an excellent way of seeing a good deal of the world. Then, too, the bars have been let down lately, and it is now possible to rise in the navy. Two warrant officers have recently been promoted to the rank of ensign, and the way is open to more promotions of the same sort. This is as it should be. The possibility of advancement for merit will attract young men to the navy who otherwise would not enlist.

A Patriotic Project.

Hon. W. A. Beer, superintendent of schools for Clarion county and former member of the legislature, has a practical plan to make the young idea within the sphere of his influence shoot along patriotic lines. He explains it in a circular just sent out from his home in Callonsburg, as follows:

I have been thinking that our school children do not know enough about our form of government, and that a study of the lives and work of the three great citizens of the Republic who rose to the highest place in the gift of a free people and died in service by the hands of assassins would be the best means to do for our country what we should do.

I have thought it a patriotic and helpful thing to do to allow the school children to collect funds and erect a suitable memorial to these three dead presidents. I have, after some correspondence, ascertained that we can erect a very fine memorial having bronze profiles of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley on three faces of a suitable shaft and an appropriate inscription and emblem on the other, for about $800.

My idea is to have the contributors to the fund elect a commission to select the design, adopt inscription, and in conjunction with the county commissioners, erect the shaft on a suitable plot near the court house at the county seat.

The plan for raising the fund is as follows: Go to work at once and prepare suitable exercises for the day mentioned, November 19, and have your pupils study and discuss the lives and services of the martyred three. Have it understood that on that day you will take their offerings in money to help erect the memorial. Make an effort to have your contribution average ten cents for each pupil enrolled. Some may not be able to bring in anything, others may bring a dollar or more. I wish every individual teacher would contribute a dollar, and get as much from your friends as you can. Have the children solicit from everybody, taking down the name of everyone who gives anything.

In addition to your exercises in school I would urge an evening meeting in your church or in some public hall at which time some public speaker should discuss the lives of the men whose memory we desire to perpetuate.

There is more of the same and an elaboration of the idea, with further suggestions for the plan of campaign, but the foregoing gives a clear idea of the purpose and the methods to be employed. We find it altogether praiseworthy, with the exception that teachers should not be asked to contribute a dollar each, and we wish it success. There are 255 schools in Clarion county, and it will undoubtedly be an easy matter to raise the modest sum asked for. Instead of interfering with the general project for a McKinley monument a movement such as this should stimulate interest in it and swell the contributions in its behalf.

Another Anti-Marriage Club.

From time to time there is chronicled the organization by young women of an anti-marriage alliance, and now comes a report of another, this time in Waverly, N. Y. Generally there has been a strong suspicion that the promoters of such clubs were spinsters who had given up all hope of matrimony, but the dispatch from Waverly declares that the anti-matrimonialists there are the prettiest girls of the town.

This statement as to the beauty of the Waverly girls is to a considerable extent borne out by their rules, which clearly show that they believe they are still on the safe side of the line of attractiveness. The following are among the penalties provided in the rules:

For winking at a man, two pounds of chocolate creams.

For marriage, summary expulsion and a banquet.

If the young men of Waverly are not utterly ineligible as beaux or husbands it is a safe wager that chocolate creams will soon be a regular item of diet among the members of the anti-marriage club, and that in due time the demerit marks will be perilously close to the expulsion point. It is also pretty safe to assume that the caterers of Waverly are looking forward to a time, and that in the near future, when there will be a series of banquets in celebration of the disintegration of the anti-marriage club organized by the prettiest girls of that town.

Don't Give to Beggars.

From the Philadelphia Press.

As the cold weather begins the city fills with beggars and the pleas on chilly nights for just enough for a night's lodging and a meal will grow frequent. Don't give on the street and give nothing to any "charity" which distributes food indiscriminately. An unearned meal to the able-bodied is Satan's wage. Times are easy. Work is plenty. Any man can get it if he is really looking for it. Don't let your dime pay his fare on the devil's road to idleness and crime. Give instead to charities which keep people off the streets, which insist on work, and let the law take its course for those who refuse to work for their daily bread.

Remedy Against Lightning.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

Speaking with Menelik of death, the Italian physicians found that he greatly feared lightning. He has always ready sulphuric ether and a syringe. He saw one day an Italian doctor inject ether into a man unconscious from a shock of lightning, and has since considered it an infallible remedy. His bottle bears the inscription: "Remedy against lightning." In the beginning of 1897 Menelik commissioned some Italian doctors to set up a model pharmacy at Addis-Abeba, which was soon done, but its contents now require renewing. Each bottle and drawer bears the name of its contents in Italian and Abyssinian, while the illnesses for which each may be used are named in a large book, kept personally by the Negus.

Pastor's Modest Invitation.

From the Kansas City (Mo.) Journal.

Phillipsburg, Kan., has an up-to-date Baptist preacher. Instead of doing some sensational turn in order to attract people to his church he simply advertises in the local paper: "There still remain a few vacant seats at the regular services in the Baptist church of this city. The pastor will, and can, preach better sermons if the seats are all filled with worshipful attendants. Will you not come?"

It looks as if the iron and steel business was getting its second wind for another tremendous boom.—Connellsville Courier.

The business prospects of the town are now brighter than for some time. The cessation of activity at the glass factory left idle men who were light buyers. Numbers had moved from the town who have now returned and the business places are now busy marts of trade. Added to this is the sum which was expended in trips to Buffalo. Soon it will be said as it was last year, that "Mt. Jewett is one of the best towns in the state."—Mt. Jewett News.

With all her railroads, New Castle could use a few more in her business. The lines and yards are so congested with the volume of freight turned over to them that manufacturers are experiencing a temporary difficulty in getting material delivered and in getting cars to get their product out. ### Bitter the Wail of the Man Who Pays for a Political Dead Horse—Tammany Men Find Campaign Expenses More Burdensome.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Herald Building, NEW YORK, Nov 11.

Campaign expenses can be paid with equanimity when the candidate has been successful, but they must hang heavily upon the purse strings when disbursed for a losing fight. Unger, Tammany candidate for the district attorneyship, knows something about this. He was whipped out of his boots by Justice Jerome, and now he confesses that he paid nearly $9,000 for the experience. The exact figures of his campaign expenses, according to his sworn testimony, were $8,715 38. His statement of expenses was filed today, in accordance with the law, and may, therefore, be taken as correct. Mr. Unger gave $5,000 of this amount to Tammany hall, to be used as that institution judged wise. This is the largest campaign expense acknowledged by any candidate for some time, and it was paid by a man who lost. Many other candidates swore in their campaign expenses today, but few of them were more than $500, and some of them were less than $200, while a few—Supreme Court Justice Blanchard, for instance—spent nothing at all. He made oath that there had been no moneys contributed or expended by him directly or indirectly, either by himself or any other person, in aid of his election. Very few of the candidates could say this, however, and it is evident that Tammany must have used a great deal of cash in carrying on its losing fight with the party of decency for control of the government of Greater New York. Of course, money was spent by fusionists, too, because there are numerous legitimate expenses in every political campaign; but it does not appear that there was as much laid out by them as by the Tammany men. The case for the Tiger was desperate, and his followers realized the fact. Desperate officeholders will spend a great deal of money in the hope of maintaining their grip on the throat of the dough bag.

Office Seekers Lying in Wait for Low.

Now that Mayor-Elect Low has returned to New York, there is a general agitation among officeseekers. It is true that Mr. Low has said he will not make any appointments save on the single ground of fitness; but the office hunters are not discouraged by that declaration. They think that they can show their fitness easily enough, with a little claim on the new mayor's gratitude to make the fitness rather more impressive. At all events a good slate has been prepared for the mayor-elect, and if he does smash it all to pieces, to begin with, as he may, there will be much hopefulness around his new headquarters at Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street for a while. He took possession of his new headquarters at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and then the officeseekers swooped down upon him with congratulations, but always with a keen eye to windward, after the manner of their kind. Mr. Low has a hard task ahead of him.

Passing of a Beautiful Autumn.

The long stretch of fair weather New York has enjoyed was broken tonight when it began to rain. All through September and October and in November until now, we have had sunshine and balmy temperature, and here, the forlorkers have been asking themselves whether this really is a New York autumn. Now that we have an old-fashioned, chilly, sloppy night, with bobbing umbrellas in the prospect, and plenty of mud spattered by the wheels of passing vehicles, the New Yorker who loves his city feels that he is getting his deserts meteorologically, and can forgive the splendid autumn that is passing away.

A Wornout Pull in Brooklyn.

The police hardly know what to do about raiding poolrooms and gambling houses. They want to curry favor with the incoming administration, but they feel that they are hardly out of the clutches of that which rules now, and it has become a habit with a large part of the police to let certain people alone, whether they are breakers of the law or not. Over in Brooklyn they seem to be more independent than on Manhattan island. There was a gambling place raided early on Sunday morning, the proprietor of which it popularly supposed to be enjoyed a "pull." He is one Eddie Milan, and, although it was well known that he had a crap game running in a spectacularly busy manner, he was not touched until Sunday morning. Then there was a raid, and all his visitors and himself, numbering more than 40 in all, were taken to the nearest police station. It is not likely that there will be any objection to this capture, and the prisoners will have to pay fines most likely. Justice Jerome has not said anything, but it is easy to imagine him looking with a great deal of contempt at this first evidence that the Brooklyn police know there is to be a radical change in the city government.

An Acrobatic Mobe Woman.

The spectacle of a handsomely-dressed young woman turning a complete somersault from an automobile and alighting gracefully on her feet in the road was a shock to decorous promenaders along the Eastern parkway, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. Keep in mind the fact that it was Sunday afternoon. The young lady manipulated her skirts so skillfully that she was not the least bit flustered. On the contrary, she looked about her with a smile, as if she felt inclined to bow to the spectators. A young man who had been riding with her in the automobile also turned a somersault with her and came down by her side, but his performance was eclipsed in interest by that of the vision of beauty in long skirts, furs and a picture hat that accompanied him. The automobile had broken down, and the chauffeur, who was also pitched out, landed on the back of his neck. He was bruised, but not seriously. His two passengers were professional acrobats, known as Monie and Mabel Ringlander.

Historian Maclay Waits for Decision.

The result of the Schley investigation may have an important literary influence. It may cause Edgar Stanton Maclay to edit his new famous book to make it agree with the findings of the naval court. Mr. Maclay is the author of "The History of the United States Navy," and it was certain statements in this work that brought on the Schley investigation. Mr. Maclay at the Brooklyn navy yard today said that he was waiting for the decision of the naval court before putting forth the revised edition of the history. If Admiral Schley be exonerated and cleared of all discredit, Mr. Maclay will cut out of his third volume all that part which shows the admiral in an unfavorable light.

Justice On and Off the Stage.

Justice Jerome is a solemn man while sitting on the bench of special sessions. He never forgets the grave decorum that is proper in his judicial position. But when he is off the stage, as it were, and is getting on his "make-up" ready for a public appearance, he likes his little pleasantry. Some reporters were interviewing him today in his chambers before the opening of court and he answered questions until he put on his robe of office, when he said with a smile: "I cannot answer any more questions; I have my muzzle on now." Then turning to his associate on the bench, Justice Hinsdale, he continued: "Come on, pop," to which Justice Hinsdale responded soberly: "I am ready, sister." Then, composing their features, the two justices in their long black robes marched solemnly to their seats as the court crier made sonorous announcement that the court was in session and commanded order on the part of all present.

Wedding in the Tombs.

There was a wedding in the Tombs this morning. It was not the first, by many a hundred; but it created a great deal of interest, nevertheless. The bridegroom was Joseph Burns, who eloped from Evansville, Ind., with Lena Zelmer not long ago, and, incidentally, took with him $300 from a merchant of that city. He and the girl were arrested in the general postoffice last Wednesday and are awaiting extradition papers. To make sure of their happiness, they were married in the girl's cell by one of the Tombs chaplains, Father Smith. It is a question when they will have an opportunity to spend their honeymoon together, since their wedding trip is likely to be a railroad journey as prisoners to Indiana.

Molineux's Father Has Open Purse.

Gen. Molineux said today that he would not accept the offer of his old comrades of the One Hundred and Fifty-ninth New York volunteers to aid him financially in the defense of his son, charged with murder. The general says he appreciates the kindly feeling which prompted his comrades to make the offer, but that he has said he will spend his last dollar in defense of his son, and he has not reached his last dollar yet. Whatever opinions people may hold as to the guilt or innocence of Roland B. Molineux of the crime that is laid at his door, everyone sympathizes with Gen. Molineux, and many who are not convinced of the innocence of the young man would like to see him cleared for his father's sake. Argument on the motion to quash the indictment will come up on Thursday. If the motion be granted that will be the end of the case; otherwise a new trial will begin in due course.

Welcome to Maude Adams.

One of the most brilliant audiences of the season gathered in the Knickerbocker theater tonight to welcome Maude Adams back to New York. It seemed as if the regular first-nighters had made a special effort to be present en masse, and few of the familiar faces that usually grace first performances in a Broadway house were missed. The new Barrie play, "Quality Street," was the vehicle that carried Miss Adams into metropolitan favor; and certainly it did that, judging by enthusiastic applause. The little lady looked as if she enjoyed the evening, and, no doubt, she did.

The New Basso.

New York has a new basso, and he is a satisfactory one, too. His name is Whitney Tew. He gave his first song recital this afternoon in Mendelssohn hall under the direction of Henry Wolfsohn to a large audience, which was loud in its demonstrations of approval. The fact that a large hall like Mendelssohn can be packed to listen to one man singing is not more surprising than that one man could keep the assemblage pleased and interested for an hour and a half by his unaided efforts. Mr. Tew has made himself a favorite in this city already, and when he gets to Pittsburgh there is no doubt that he will receive a warm welcome, if his fame precedes him. The program today was a catholic one. It embraced selections in German, Italian, French and English, and all of them were rendered with a purity of accent and a sureness of touch that proved Mr. Tew to be an educated man as well as a splendid basso. The numbers that appeared to please particularly were "Hat Man Nicht Mit Seinen Kindern," by Bach, and Schumann's "Der Knabe Mit Dem Wunderhorn." Among other notable selections was a vocal rendering of Walt Whitman's poem, "The Captain," written on the death of Abraham Lincoln, and which has a special significance now that the assassination of President McKinley is fresh in the mind. Isador Luckstone was the accompanist, which, of course, means that the instrumental part of the entertainment was superb.

Doctoring an Atlantic Liner.

The American liner New York is in the hands of the shipwrights and has been for many weeks. Her new stern post arrived today at the Erie basin, where the stanch vessel, which gave such a good account of herself as a cruiser in the Spanish-American war, is being refitted. The post is of steel. In two parts, the lower one weighing 15 tons. When the stern post and the special steel casting which, with the post itself, will support the extreme ends of the outboard shafts are in place, the combined castings will weigh altogether 58 tons. And yet this 58 tons is a mere bagatelle in the total weight of the big ship.

One's judgment is somewhat confused as to the merits of Mr. Clyde Fitch's play of New York social life, "The Climbers," presented at the Alvin last evening, by two considerations. One is the superlative excellence of a majority of the players and the other is the truly dazzling effects created by the sartorial elegance of the several scenes. "The Climbers" is distinctly a drama of "clothes." In reflecting certain phases of New York society the effectiveness of the work of modistes and tailors is beyond all reasonable criticism. Of the play it may be safely said that Mr. Fitch has more nearly met the demands of forceful and effective dramatic construction and begins to tell with more interest a story of modern life under easily identified surroundings than in any one of his numerous plays now current on the stage. In "The Climbers" there is a peculiar vividness about the satire, as, for instance, the character of Mrs. Hunter is a strongly drawn satire on the worldly element in society. Johnny Trotter is a satire on the vulgarly rich, and little Miss Godesby is just as cleverly intended to point to the foibles and weaknesses of the "gay set." There is in the character drawing a clearer purpose, more steadily adhered to than has been usual with Mr. Fitch of late. In this one particular the play is a vast improvement. It is unnecessary to follow circumstantially the story of the play. Its central motif is the struggles of a number of people in New York society to attain different ends and hence their are "climbers" each in his own way for the thing most desired. There is a false note in the development of the play, nor is the dramatic scheme indicated in the first act elaborated successfully by what follows. With his accustomed weakness in this direction Mr. Fitch allows himself to be tempted into bypaths for the sake of theatric effect. In every instance in which Mr. Fitch allows his satire to be forgotten in his eagerness for sensation he weakens the dramatic effectiveness and harmony of the play as a whole. The funeral scene was a daring piece of satire, almost brutal in its revealment of a certain type of women. It occurred in the first act and raised the hope that despite its almost gruesome suggestiveness would be followed by an equally strong and well sustained plot and denouement. The second act drops in interest and its theatric conclusion, in which the gambling spendthrift husband confesses his thievery in the dark, while effective as a mere device of theatricism, is wholly unworthy of a drama that promises so much as does "The Climbers." The comedy in the third act is delicious, and the situation following the marriage of the parvenu widow and young Trotter, in which the daughter gives expression to her amusement at the match and reveals something of her mother's true nature to her new husband, is cleverly and humorously worked out. The dialogue is at times bright with a certain worldly cynicism that makes it entertaining. But from this act forward to the end, which includes the theatric suicide of the erring husband in the presence of the man whom his wife had confessed she loves, Mr. Fitch throws away the last chance of having his play called even approximately great, or true, or worthy. It is cheap melodrama of the most mawkish and confusing kind. When will this sort of thing end? When will Clyde Fitch and his contemporary playwrights gain the strength to write a play and not yield to the weakness for mere theatrical effect? It is all the more abominable in "The Climbers" because there is hope for better things in the first and third acts.

Of the cast and the stage effects too much cannot be said in praise. Miss Bingham is herself an actress of great force and intelligence. Her progress in recent years has been most surprising, and now that she has achieved the summit of her ambitions one can readily see that real merit in her work has helped to put her there. Mr. Frank Worthing played the role of the weak husband with fine skill and discernment. While possessed of mannerisms that destroy to some extent the pleasure one might derive from hearing him, his histrionic ability is evidenced in all that he does. Robert Edeson played the role of a man in love with another man's wife as well as Mr. Fitch would let him with the rather confusing character that he has endowed him with. Mr. Edeson is a clever young actor and we understand has stardom in the new next season. One of the best played parts in the entire cast was that of the parvenu widow by Madge Car Cooke. The role was handled with the deft skill of a true artist, and though it might easily have been spoiled, the sterling actress and old Pittsburgh stock company favorite carried it through with splendid spirit and accuracy. Ferdinand Gottschalk was excellent as Trotter. This may be said with equal truth and force of Miss Minnie Dupree, Miss Ethel Winthrop and, indeed, all the members of the finely balanced cast. As we have said before the stage effects were fine. Both the supper scene and the snowstorm were fine samples of stage realism. The gowns of the ladies were superb. "The Climbers" reflects the genius of a strong, talented company, hence its real attractiveness as a stage entertainment.

Grand—"The Shaughraun."

The wonderful success of the revival of Dion Boucicault's Irish drama, "The Shaughraun," by the Grand Stock Company, will continue through a fortnight's triumph. Audiences that tested the capacity of the theater filled the Grand at both performances yesterday. The advantage of frequent rehearsals was noticeable in the familiarity of the players with their lines and in the precision with which the intricate stage "business" was carried out. The play as produced this week is as near perfect as would be desired, and the strength of the stock company is shown at its best. Many persons in the big audiences yesterday had returned within the week to see the play a second time, and Miss Sarah Truax, Mr. William Ingersoll, Mr. John Waldron and all the leading members of the company were accorded ovations by those who had witnessed last week's triumph. The splendid scenery and the mounting of the drama is still the subject of comment and is the feature of the production that places "The Shaughraun" among the best of the numerous elaborate revivals that Stage Manager Jack Huffman has given Pittsburgh playgoers.

Bijou—Chauncey Olcott.

Chauncey Olcott, in his new four act comedy, "Garrett O'Magh," won his usual hearty applause from a large audience at the Bijou last night. Although this is his second week he has more enthusiastic admirers than the first and this seems true of his each successive appearance here. His acting and Irish melodies never tire and his admirers increase rather than diminish. The play itself would be tame without Mr. Olcott. The children aid Mr. Olcott wonderfully. In fact, he is so much a favorite with children that he would not be at home in a play with them out of it. His songs won repeated applause, and he responded gracefully and graciously.

Empire—"The Gambler's Daughter."

"The Gambler's Daughter," with Elsie Creecy filling the part of that much abused and triumphant individual, did not a whit belie its name as the principal at the Empire theater last night. It was full of the strong and lurid features of the sensational melodrama from the rise of the curtain, upon the home of a wealthy member of the Chicago stock exchange and proprietor of a luxurious gaming room, to the nerve-trying finale, presenting the daughter's true lover bursting through the window of a deserted roadside building at the moment when both father and daughter were about to be let unceremoniously down into the cold waters of a lake through one of the usual trap doors.

The story deals with the daughter, who defies her father when he tries to force her to marry the scheming rascal of the world into whose power he has entrapped himself. True to the poorer but more honest lover whom the two have had in jail through forgery and deception, she risks the money which stands in her own name against her father, and finally ruins him. Two thoroughly sensational scenes are where she first beats her father at his own game by buying wheat on the Chicago board of trade as fast as he sells, sustaining the market, and where in his own private gambling resort she ruins him utterly by staking heavily on the turn of a card against Fate. That the father should not recognize the masked daughter is of course melodramatic license. At the last minute in the wayside barn the father receives to be a man and is defending his daughter when help and her lover arrives.

Duquesne—Vaudeville.

The first nighters at the Duquesne were treated last night to an unusually good program of vaudeville. The house was taxed to its capacity and every one of the nine acts was given due applause. Lavender and Tennison open the bill with rare bits of comedy. The interest of the night, however, centered on Gertrude Haynes and her celestial choir. This is not a new feature on the vaudeville stage, but Miss Haynes and her white-robed choir, made up of nearly a score of sweet-voiced youths, has carried the act to a degree that lacks nothing of the romantic. She has a fairly well trained voice and modulates it according to the requirements of the sacred music she sings. The whole was presented with appropriate stage settings. The Panzer trio are, undoubtedly, the best of their kind that have been seen at the Duquesne this season. They twirl their bodies in every conceivable form with a grace and ease that won them rounds of applause. Filson and Errol have a pleasant sketch entitled, "A Trip to the Derby." In which they show no mean ability. Aside from these "Captain Impudence," an farce presented by Edwin Milton Royle and Selina Fetter Royle, was certainly the best feature of the night. Inasmuch as there was a bit of good acting in it. All told the Duquesne management has gathered together one of the best vaudeville performances of the season.

Academy—"New York Stars."

Harry Williams' Academy this week presents Jack Burke as a prize attraction with Bob Manchester's New York Stars. Jack Burke, who is manager of the company, is a former prize ring hero and in 1898 he participated in the longest glove contest on record with Andy Bowen in New Orleans. The contest lasted 110 rounds, 7 hours and 19 minutes, and was decided as a draw. Jack Burke, with William McEvoy, were given an ovation by the usual crowded house at the Academy for their laughable boxing act, showing the notable knock-out blows of the famous American and English pugilists. All of the vaudeville attractions of the performance were well above the average and took well with an appreciative audience. The curtain raiser of the company and the burlesque conclusion were also well received. McIntyre and Rice, well known to vaudeville patrons in years gone by, appeared in a comedy act with Indifferent Success. Rogers and Nelson, Nat Brown did a German comedy turn to the extreme gratification of their audience. In the concluding burlesque they proved themselves equal to the best extravaganza comedians. A notable feature of the vaudeville performance is the English comedy bicycle act of Palfrey and Hilton. Anna and Charles Gleckers were well received in a clever baton performance. LaBelle Parsons sang in a beautiful and sweet voice, with calcium pictures lending interest.

Clara Morris to Lecture.

The reappearance of Clara Morris before the public as a lecturer and entertainer is one of the most interesting events of the season. It is but another instance of the singular energy with which this gifted artist is endowed. Always a sufferer from bodily ailments she threw off the shackles, when at the very heighth of her popularity and success, to seek in rest and quiet and the accumulations of her earnings the recompense for her long and arduous struggle. But she could not be inactive long. Soon short stories of her decided genius,

PRISCILLA'S PENCIL.

A walk downtown teaches one many things these early winter days. For instance, the florists' windows are flaming with chrysanthemums just now. Rumor had it that the shaggy, brilliant blossom was passe this year, but observation says differently, and three of the October brides have chosen it as the reigning blossom of ceremony and reception.

Also,

That the debutantes of this winter will all have rosy complexions. I saw two of them lunching in a downtown shop with a youthful chaperon on Saturday, and their complexions are several shades darker and ruddier than their grandmothers would have approved. Golf does it—golf and yachting and the merry outdoor life which is a foregone conclusion with the modern society maiden.

I Noted

That the smartest collars this winter have long, sharp points. They are not very many as yet, because the soft ribbon or fluffy chiffon stock of the summer still holds its own, but with the corduroy and flannel waists the linen collar will come again, and it will have no rounded corners. They are relegated to the past, and the nurse maids. Sharp points are for my swagger lady.

I Learned

That chocolate chips are the favorite bon-bon for trifling gifts this season. They come plain and spiced, some sprinkled with bits of alluring colored sugar and some filled with pink and violet cream. A basket in old-fashioned round shape or a natty little dress suit case filled with these makes a fascinating gift for a girl who has a mouth for chocolate.

On Fifth Avenue.

Fifth avenue is like a summer garden on these autumn afternoons, with the bright faces which the days bring forth. Shopping for the winter gaieties, sauntering for pleasure, seeking bargains, or "just meeting each other," all the girls find their way at least once during the day to the little three blocks of promenade, whereon all the brightest flags of merchandise are hung. Here one may note the valuable hints of "what is" this year. Flat hats, toques, or turbans without a sign of upstanding garnitures; small, narrow hemstitched handkerchiefs; loose fitting thick black gloves; calfskin boot of dull finish and comfortable proportions; bright flannel waist, striped with Persian patterns and long, carelessly knotted scarfs around the neck, are seen in such numbers as to prove their position for the season.

A SMART WINTER HAT.

The Season Is Showing Preference For Low Effects, Rough Texture and Pompons,

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Tar soap is highly recommended for all kind of skin irritation. The best varieties are especially good for diseases of the scalp, falling hair, dandruff, etc.

To prevent soot from gathering in the chimneys and back of the range where coal is used, make a strong salt brine and pour it over the coals, letting it dry, of course, before they are used. An old housekeeper from an eastern city assures me that this will keep everything beautifully bright and clean.

All food receptacles should be of glass, metal or porcelain. Wooden receptacles are never desirable, as they cannot be made germ and dust proof as the harder materials.

A broom, which is daily dipped in cold water and shaken out, will retain its shape longer and do better work than the ordinary one, left to accumulate all loose dust and dirt.

A soothing drink for a sore throat is made of a pint of barley water brought to a boil over a slow fire. Add while stirring an ounce of the best gum arabic and stir until the lump is entirely dissolved. Sweeten to taste.

White ribbons when washed at home should never be ironed. Left rough dry they have a fresh crinkled appearance not unlike crepe silk, but when ironed they bespeak their fate and look "common."

A bit of lemon kept on the kitchen sink will keep the hands and fingers free from potato paring stains, which are always ugly and disfiguring.

A soft cloth rubbed over the stove every morning after the kitchen is swept will obviate the need for constant polishing.

A RUFFLED MOTHER.

A mother at Woodford, says a London exchange, is much troubled at the thought of her daughter being taught cookery at the board school. "My Mary Ann," she writes in protest, "is not going to be a servant. I want her to be a lady, and the less she knows of how to cook victuals the better. When I sent my gal to the board school I did not expect she was going to be taught undignified things like that." This is amusing enough, but it is symptomatic of the stage through which we are passing. A little knowledge was bound to be a dangerous thing, and it was certain that the spread of popular education would be accompanied by false notions respecting it. Now that everybody of course goes to school we have to try and make everybody understand what is and is not "dignified."

SOCIETY

Miss Mary Lippincott and her associates at Kingsley house were given a housewarming last evening in their new home, the old Montooth mansion on Herron Hill. Through the generosity of Henry C. Frick, Pittsburgh's pioneer social settlement has been given a permanent home, and its formal opening occurred last evening. Coupled with the gift of Mr. Frick, which also included the entire renovation and remodeling of the house, has been the successful efforts of the directors in furnishing the new Kingsley house. Their friends generously came to their assistance, and last night when the doors were thrown open to the public the new home presented a bright and attractive appearance, with rooms to meet every need of the people of the neighborhood from the wee toddler in the kindergarten to the man and woman of older years who are invited to the clubs' and the mothers' meetings.

It was hoped to the last that the founder of Kingsley house, the Rev. George Hodges, D. D., dean of the Divinity school in Cambridge would be present, but he was unable to come. Neither could Mr. and Mrs. Frick be present, H. D. W. English, president of the board of directors, with Miss Lipincott and others of the board, formed the reception committee, receiving the guests as they arrived. The hours were from 8 o'clock until 10. During the early part of the evening before the people had wandered over the large house on their tour of inspection informal exercises were conducted in the assembly room consisting of addresses by several out-of-town visitors. They were Robert Woods, who is connected with the work of the South End house in Baltimore; Edmund Billings of the Wells Memorial and the People's institute in Boston, similar institutions to Kingsley house, and J. A. Gavit, formerly of Chicago, but now engaged in the work of the Young Men's Christian association in Wilmerding. Mr. English also gave a little talk, introducing the other gentlemen, who spoke of some features of their work in other cities. Miss Lippincott added to the interest of the program by reading extracts from her last annual report, telling of the extent to which the work of Kingsley house has grown. The guests were taken over the house after the exercises. Handsome casts of famous works of art are placed in different rooms and in the hall, adding much to the pleasing effect of new paper and hangings, together with the new furnishings suitable for the neighborhood work which is to be taken up by the group of settlement workers.

Kingsley house is now one of the best equipped institutions of its kind in the country. The old Montooth mansion at Bedford avenue and Fulton street has been thoroughly renovated and remodeled according to the needs of the social settlement work. New furniture has been placed in all of the rooms, the furnishings being the generous gifts of friends of the institution. The house is one of the commodious old fashioned houses, with a large hall running through the center. On the first floor are the parlor, handsomely furnished by Mrs. F. R. Nimick; the library with new cases, rugs and chairs provided by Mrs. William Black; the billiard room, William McConway giving the handsome table; while Mrs. McConway donated the chairs for the assembly room across from the parlor. In the pleasant dining-room is a set of chimes presented by C. E. E. Childers in memory of his little daughter. Mrs. Henry Lee Mason furnished the halls throughout.

In the basement is the large gymnasium; the room where the cooking classes will meet, furnished with gas stoves, tables and a full equipment of cooking utensils, and the kindergarten room with its attractively decorated walls, its pictures, plants and birds.

On the third floor are the office furnished by Mrs. E. E. Keller, and the club room for men which was completely equipped by H. D. W. English with chairs, reading tables, games, papers and periodicals. On this floor are also the apartments of the residents.

Kingsley house was founded six years ago under the direction of the Rev. George Hodges, then rector of Calvary Protestant Episcopal church, now dean of the Divinity school, Cambridge.

It was established in Penn avenue near Seventeenth street, one of the most congested portions of the city, where it remained until last summer. The kindergarten class was opened a couple of weeks ago in the new home and the other classes are being opened this week. Miss Mary Lippincott is the head resident and associated with her are Miss Elizabeth Gillespie, Miss Katherine Pearson Woods, Miss Ella W. Johnston and Miss Flora Dunlap. Prominent men and women of Pittsburgh and Allegheny are interested and under their direction many of the classes which constitute much of the work of the institution are conducted.

The board of directors includes H. D. W. English, William McConway, C. E. E. Childers, the Rev. John R. Wightman, Joseph E. Guffey, J. J. Miller, William S. Kuhn, Mrs. Gilbert Rafferty, Mrs. William Black, Mrs. H. P. Dilworth, Mrs. Henry Lee Mason, Miss Harriet C. Murphy, Miss Minnie Sellers and Miss Margaret B. Brown.

Assisting last evening in showing hospitality to all the guests were other workers in Kingsley house, among them being Miss Margaret Furey, Miss Elizabeth Bennett, Miss Minerva Crooks, Miss Mary Gibson, Miss Grace Hamilton, Miss Gertrude Heard, Miss Eleanor Laird, Miss Louise Knox, Miss Sophia F. McCallam, Miss Elizabeth McConway, Miss Florence Murdock, Miss Lydia Murdock, Miss Jane Murdock, Miss Mary H. Morgan, Miss Rankin, Miss Sara Sellers, Mrs. W. R. Powers and Mrs. J. Kennedy Moorhead.

The Meeting of Colloquium.

The Colloquium club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. A. Magee. The delightful social character of the meeting made it one of the most enjoyable of the year. Mrs. Magee's home was simply though charmingly decorated in yellow, black and white. The flowers were huge yellow and white chrysanthemums, which were combined very effectively with the handsome Russian flag. The subject for the afternoon was a continuation of the study of Russia, the papers presented treating of industrial and commercial Russia. Mrs. R. G. Armstrong read a paper on "The Industrial Arts," which was followed by a discussion of "Underground Russia, Its Mines and Miners," by Mrs. Howard Morton. Mrs. Carolyn Watson talked on "The Mir System."

After the program was concluded the usual informal reception, with the serving of refreshments took place. The next meeting of the club will be held November 25 at the home of Mrs. William F. Abel, in Murtland avenue, Homewood.

A Bellevue Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Jeannette Brown and Harry C. Worthington takes place Thursday evening at the bride's home in Bellevue. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Joseph Brown of Beaver Falls, a brother of the bride elect. Miss Brown is the daughter of the late W. Clarence Brown and Mrs. Elizabeth Brown of Bellevue, and the wedding is to be of a quiet character. No invitations have been issued and the ceremony will be witnessed only by immediate relatives of the two families. Miss Margaret Hartman of East Liverpool, a schoolmate of Miss Brown, will be her maid of honor, and Frank Worthington, a cousin of the bridegroom, will be the best man. Miss Brown is a Pennsylvania college girl, and has a large circle of friends and acquaintances in the East End and Bellevue. After the ceremony the young couple will go on an eastern wedding tour, and on their return will make their home in Rippey street, East End.

The Civic Club Reception.

The president and board of directors of the Civic club of Allegheny county give their annual reception this evening at the Twentieth Century club. The reception will be held in connection with the annual meeting of the club, which will commence at 8 o'clock. A guest of the Civic club will be Miss Rosalie Loew of the Legal Aid society, New York, who will make an address. Miss Loew is a delightful speaker and her experiences in New York city in the legal aid work, which is the latest undertaken by the local club, will be the basis of her talk. All who are interested in the work of the Civic club, whether members of the club or not, are invited to attend the meeting and reception.

Wedding in Crafton.

A suburban wedding which takes place in Crafton Thursday evening is that of Miss Julia A. Newman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Newman of Crafton avenue, and William C. Dittmar of Allegheny. It will be a home wedding and the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. William S. Miller, pastor of the Crafton Presbyterian church. After the wedding trip the young couple will make their home in Allegheny.

Notes of Society.

Mrs. Franklin P. Iams last evening entertained the Euchre club, of which she is a member, at her home in Sheraden.

The Lawrenceville New Century club will hold an open meeting in the Butler Street Methodist Episcopal church on Tuesday afternoon, November 26, at 3:30 o'clock. The Hon. W. P. Potter will deliver a lecture on "Mary, Queen of Scots."

Clyde S. Vogel, of the Pittsburgh Dental college, gave a dinner on Saturday at his home in Sheraden in honor of J. Edgar Arlington of Altoona, Pa. The guests included I. W. Rhoades, Cincinnati; W. S. Clark, Mt. Morris, Pa., C. Quincy Herbertson, Harrisburg; Donald McPherson, Cleveland, Harry Thompson, George Wilson, Chauncey Irwin, Pittsburgh; W. M. Plukerton and George H. McCauch, Sheraden.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

Mrs. M. G. S. writes—Can you give sure rules for testing the heat of oven for baking?

Heat of Oven for Baking.

No infallible rule can be given that can be strictly followed out in all cases. Using an oven thermometer is not practicable, neither is the test by hand to be relied upon by the amateur whose hand is entirely unaccustomed to heat. The various kinds of fuel and stoves used make it necessary for each cook to make laws to fit her particular conditions. Experience is the only sure guide. Learn how to increase or diminish the heat quickly or gradually, and just how to get the different degrees of heat that are meant by hot or quick, moderate or slow ovens.

Small breakfast breads, rolls, puff paste and small pieces of meat like steaks or game require very hot ovens at first, and then heat somewhat diminished after the first 15 minutes.

Soaking Potatoes.

Miss C. D. asks if white potatoes should be allowed to stand in cold water for some time before cooking. Not unless they are wilted. They will turn dark if allowed to stand long before they are pared unless thrown into cold water; therefore, do not pare until ready to cook them.

LESSONS FROM AMATEUR TEAM

The Homestead Stars Taught a Few Tricks by Players from East End.

THE LALUS SCORE WAS A COSTLY ONE

It Took Plenty of Cash from the Betting Men and It Cost the Homestead Players a Whole Lot of Good Hard Practice Work.

It would pay Captain Fultz and the backers of the Homestead stars to secure the Lalus eleven and stack it up against the big fellows for a practice game some time during the week. There is not a bit of doubt that the two contests the stars have had with the East End eleven have had a very beneficial effect, because they have enabled Captain Fultz to pick out the flaws in his team, and in good time so that a remedy could be applied.

In the game Saturday at Steel Works park when the Lalus players broke through the lines and blocked Croilus' kick they made a play that cost some of the sporty boys good-sized wads of cash, as they had bet, and given odds at that, on no score for Lalus. The officials allowed the East End eleven a safety which counted for two points, and the fellows on the side lines who had the long green wagered made a much stronger kick against the officials' ruling than did the captain of the stars, and his protest was no mild mannered affair by a long shot.

The Lalus Play Was a Costly One.

That Lalus play not only cost the sporty boys their money, but it also cost the Homestead players a whole lot of good hard work. As a rule Monday's practice among football elevens are always a light one, for the reason that the players are usually still sore from hard exertion in contests on Saturdays. The coach generally works a team as a good trainer works a horse—they are worked out by degrees until full speed is attained. Davy Fultz cut out the easy end of play yesterday, and the way he piled it onto his players was a caution.

Captain Davy was evidently not pleased with the manner in which his men tackled on Saturday, and he gave that branch of play a hard run yesterday. There was no foolishness about the practice tackling, as Nieman, Gammons, Richardson, Maxson and Crollius will testify. They were the players whose duty it was to catch punts and try to make runs with the ball after getting it, and there were times when the tacklers brought them down with such force that time had to be called until Trainer Davy Sheehan could rub out the sore spots.

Then there was a seige of practice at trying to block kicks. The heaviest men on the team were placed in front of the line with orders to do their thought to be possible and block the ball. These instructions were followed out to the letter, and for a good hour that star line had to stand assaults that were fiercer than can be expected in any regular game. The players had their war paint on, as well as all the paraphernalia that is used in a regular game, and they needed it.

The only players who were not in uniform were Winstein, who took a day off in order to rest up from the effects of some day's pumping, and Arthur Miller, whose nose was broken in the pleasant little affair of Saturday. Miller was on the field in citizens' dress and followed the plays as carefully as though he was in uniform. Prior to practice Captain Fultz called his players together in the center of the field, where he had one of those heart-to-heart talks with his men. It was not given out what this talk was about, but the chances are that the game with Lafayette on Saturday was hinted at. The stars look on this game as their hardest contest of the season.

Think the Team a World Beater.

Will McConnell, who played center on last year's D. C. and A. C. eleven, and who is here to try to secure a post-season game with the stars in behalf of the Franklin team, was over at the park. He offered the stars fine inducements to go up to Franklin, but will hardly secure a game, as the club officials do not favor post-season games. He will make an effort to secure a game with the Lalus eleven. McConnell reports that the people of Franklin look upon their eleven as a world beater. The team, which is under the charge of "Teck" Mathews, has not been scored on in two seasons and has rolled up a total of 658 points on its opponents. The Franklin eleven has the high score record, having made 138 points against an Ohio team last season.

HAD LIGHT PRACTICE.

Wash.-Jeff.'s Regulars Are Not in the Best of Shape.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The W. & J. football team had light practice this afternoon, according to the custom after a hard game. There was no scrub team on the field, and the varsity simply went through signal work, punting and other light practice. Acorn has a bad knee and limped out of the game temporarily, while Sutter and Forkum are not in the best of condition, as a result of the game with Bucknell. The practice will be hard all week, and it will probably be the intention to run up a large score in the game with the West Virginia university team here on Wednesday.

A good lot of substitute material is one of the good features of the football at Washington, and several of these men will be given a chance to show their worth in the game Wednesday. It is expected to materially improve the defense of the team during the week, as this is evidently the weak point in the playing. So great is the confidence in the ability of Washington-Jefferson players here that the followers of the team expect them to win every game up to the Homestead game on Thanksgiving, and they think here that the score in that game will be a small one. The W. and J. second team will go to Kittanning next Saturday, where they will meet the strong High school team of that place. The scrubs are stronger than ever this year, as was shown by the result of the game with the California Normal team, and they expect to win the game next Saturday.

RUHLIN MONEY CHANGES ODDS

PLENTY OF MEN WHO WILL BACK THE AKRON BOY'S CHANCES.

The Betting Men Have Been Closely Watching Ruhlin's Work and His Stock Has Gone Up—Is Anxious to Have Jeffries Force the Fighting and Says It Will Give Him His Best Chance.

(Special Telegram to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Ruhlin's money on the short end at 2 to 1 was almost going begging today. There were many men about the resorts frequented by the patrons of the game of pugilism ready to take any money offered at such odds, and they were not able to make many bets. The betting men have been closely watching the work of the Akron giant, and his stock in the gambling market has gone up considerably.

Last night some men holding Jeffries money were plunging at 10 to 7, and it was the prevailing opinion that such odds would be close to a natural chance in the betting. Gambling men are not backing their opinions on the records of the men. They have both fought and won hard contests. In July, 1897, Jeffries and Ruhlin met in this city, and they ended a twenty-round contest with honors even. Since then Ruhlin has been in the ring twenty-two times. Two of those fights he lost. Jeffries has since that meeting with Ruhlin fought a draw with Joe Choynski and won eleven other battles. It is the improvement that Ruhlin is believed to have made that is changing sentiment more in his favor.

Big Fighters Will Not Be Present.

None of the big fighters, with probably the exception of Tom Sharkey, will be at the ringside on Friday night when Jeffries and Ruhlin meet. Sharkey some days ago sent word from New York that he would be present, but no news has yet been received that he has started on the journey across the continent.

George Siler, who refereed the fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons at Carson City, is now on the field, and he spent yesterday at Ruhlin's camp. Neither fighter did much hard work today. Jeffries took a long walk over the hills surrounding Oskdale and in the afternoon sparred with Jack Jeffries and Bob Armstrong. Ruhlin's exercise was of the light order, including short sprints and gymnasium work, calculated to increase his speed. Both men continue in perfect physical condition.

Ruhlin, as has repeatedly been said, is bigger and stronger than ever. His fighting weight heretofore was 190 pounds, while yesterday, in the pink of condition, he weighed 203½. He expects to enter the ring at no less than 200 pounds, and those who have seen him in action say he is speedier with hands and feet at present than when ten pounds lighter.

Ruhlin has mapped out the plan of battle and in discussing it, said:

"If Jeffries comes at me helter skelter fashion, as reports say he will, I will meet him half way and exchange blows with him. Should he, however, assume his old crouching attitude and wait for me coming, I will lay back. That will make it a waiting fight, wont it?" he asked. Being answered in the affirmative, he said: "He has licked all his men by waiting until they brought the fight to him, and I am going to be careful, for I mean to beat me by fighting along those lines."

Says He Will Be Champion.

"What if he comes at you, Gus?"

"Then I'll leave the ring the champion of the world. Makes you smile, does it?" he asked of a Jeffries admirer.

"Well, you will see. I think I am faster and a straighter puncher than Jeffries, and when he comes to me I'll shoot my mitts into him so fast and hard he won't know where he is."

If Gus should win he will take on Fitzsimmons, provided Bob is willing, but he will fight Sharkey.

Ruhlin says Fitz defeated Gus when Gus was in poor condition, and that he wants to wipe out that defeat.

"Ruhlin fought nine times in a year just before meeting Fitzsimmons," said Maddem, "and the consequent training for those contests robbed him of his vitality."

"Sharkey," he continued, "cuts no ice in the championship fighting game at present, and if he really thinks he can, for wants to fight badly, I will match my colored champion, Ed Martin, against him. If he defeats him, then I'll give him a match with Ruhlin, but under no other conditions."

ANSON AT THE HELM.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—On the heels of the tale from Chicago that the Spaldings—A. G. and Walter—who have been minor stockholders in the New York club, were likely to acquire control of that organization, comes another yarn that is equally as interesting. James A. Hart, who was typographical transferman for the New York president of the club, pleads ignorance of any knowledge of such a plan, but Dame Rumor has already provided the Chicago club with a new president to succeed him. The Spaldings have been in conference recently with President Hart, and it is further claimed that A. C. Anson was called in as a willing participant in burying the hatchet that has been in more or less evidence since the G. O. M. was put on the shelf.

Anson—she runs the latest advices—is to be president of the Chicago club if Hart takes hold at New York. This yarn conflicts with another which puts the G. O. M. in command of the New York club, with the Spaldings on the North Side in Chicago. Among the enthusiasts, however, the stories are responsible for speculation in new channels, and have added to the varied topics really under discussion in this liveliest of off seasons.

The Indians would not stand for that and the referee brought the ball back, but the Harleys would not play and left the field. The game was then given to the Indians 6 to 0. The Indians would like to play the Harleys any Saturday morning in November. Address Jake Cullison, 2215 Wylie avenue.

TRACK RECORD GIVEN A JOLT

DEATH'S DEFEAT WAS COSTLY

Was Biggest Favorite of the Day and Was Beaten by Cherished. Big Crowd Present and the Track Was in Fine Condition.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The autumn season of racing at the Bennings track of the Washington Jockey club began today. Between 3,000 and 4,000 people witnessed the sport. The weather was fine and the track in excellent condition. Mars Cassidy was starter and did some good work. A large number of bookmakers were in the ring but the betting was comparatively light.

The track record was lowered in the Grandstand handicap by one-fifth of a second. Wonderly, who rode Unmasked in the fourth race, protested that Amazon had cut in on him at the turn into the stretch but the claim of foul was not allowed. A feature was the defeat of Death, the biggest favorite of the day, by a length and a half in the last event. After the game the boys enjoyed themselves in dancing, and no better treatment can be expected from any team. Manager Mack wishes to thank Mr. Farren and all players and everybody connected with Y. M. C. I. for the kind treatment received.

Will Try to Revive Boxing.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—An effort to revive the boxing game in this section of the state will be made at Hubbard on Friday night. Tom Howe of Youngstown and Patsy McGraw will have the principal bout. Jim Kelly of Philadelphia and Billy Flynn of Buffalo will meet in the preliminary.

Pittsburgh Player Was Star of the Game.

In an association football game played at Cincinnati on Sunday a Pittsburgh player was the star of the game. This is what the Cincinnati Enquirer says of his playing: "The playing of William Brown, better known as 'Pittsburgh Bill,' has never been excelled in Cincinnati. His goal scores from the field were shots that were surprising for their wonderful accuracy. One drive from the 35-yard line was a beautiful display of pigskin kicking. Judging from the amount of ground this great player covered, it is possible that the Riverside lads were under the impression that there were 10 Browns on the field."

SECRET WORK BY YALE TEAM

BLUE ELEVEN IS GETTING READY FOR THE TIGERS.

Team Had Brief Practice as Some Players Are Not in the Best of Shape—Harvard's Coaches Held a Secret Meeting, But Did Not Touch the Glass Matter—Battered Tigers Made a Poor Showing.

(Special to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 11.—The Yale football team this afternoon went into secret session, and from now until Saturday the university will see very little of the team. The gates were closed this afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the team arrived at the gridiron, and were not opened until a quarter of 4, when the coaches sent all the 'varsity team to the gymnasium. After the veterans had been sent to the dressing room the third and fourth elevens were lined up for a brief practice game.

In the 'varsity practice neither Capt. Gould nor Goss played. Goss' back is still troubling him and Gould has a lame shoulder. Their practice behind the closed gates this afternoon was very brief. Nearly all of the time was devoted to rehearsing tricks and signals. W. R. Cross and Alex. Brown, both of the '95 team, and Morris Ely, '98, were the only new coaches who arrived today. Several others have been expected, but they did not put in an appearance.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Harvard's coaches held a long meeting tonight to talk over plans for the team. It was thought by many that they would have something to give out on the Glass protest matter after the session, but when they came out at half past 9 each and everyone refused to say anything in regard to what was said or acted upon. Yale will not file her list of players until Wednesday, ten days before the game. Until that time, Harvard of course will not know whether the big guard will be played or not. The meeting in the gymnasium included players as well as coaches, the former going through the signals and perfecting themselves in the plays that will be used against the Blues. This night work is an innovation at Harvard and shows the desperate earnestness with which the coaches are preparing for Yale.

The practice today was short and light, none of the men who played against Pennsylvania getting into the scrimmages. Two touchdowns were made by the 'varsity subs against the scrubs.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—A somewhat bruised and battered set of Tigers held a practice on the varsity field this afternoon and made a showing that was anything but encouraging. Their work was ragged. The attack was spasmodic and the defense weak in the main and strong only at such uncertain intervals as to render the effect of their work practically of no value.

Capt. Pell, McCord, Dana, Foulke and McClave nursed slight bruises and took a needed day of rest. Bradley took the place of Dana and played a fair game, although the continued attacks made on the guards by the scrub backs told in the end and heavy gains were made through those positions.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The most exciting football practice witnessed on the Cornell gridiron this season took place in the rain this afternoon, with only the press representatives and a few other sanguine lovers of the sport as spectators. The scrub eleven appeared to have gained in strength since last week, and when the scrimmage ended this evening honors were equally divided between the scrubs and the 'varsity.

Kent, the regular 'varsity center, occupied that position on the scrub team, while Smith took the former's place on the 'varsity. Taussig and Tydeman did not put on their suits and the end positions were occupied by Turnbull and Lee.

NORMALS' FIELD GOAL.

Was the Only Score in the Game With Westminster.

INDIANA, PA., Nov. 11.—The Westminster football team suffered defeat here today at the hands of Indiana Normal, the score being 5 to 0, neither side being able to cross its opponent's goal line. Normal's five points were scored on a goal from field kicked by Gessler near the close of the first half. Only once was Westminster able to carry the ball into Normal's territory, but she put up a strong defense, and the second Normal line held the ball once on Westminster's five-yard line for holding. It was a pretty game, being entirely free from roughness or wrangling. Toward the close of the first half Cassell was substituted for Moorehead, whose shoulder was injured. The teams lined up as follows:

| Normal—5. | Positions. | Westminster—0 |
|---|---|---|
| Warren (Capt.) | L. T. | Campbell (Capt.) |
| Eckles | L. G. | Gamble |

SPORTING NOTES.

Win Mercer is likely to be added to the Chicago White Sox as general utility man. Capt. Comiskey thinks that the acquisition of Winnifred will offset the defection of Fred Hartman.

George A. Vanderbeck laughs at the yarns that he will return to the game. He intimates that some of the American gentlemen are fooling with gunpowder near a red-hot stove, and that the salary lists are near the danger line. Washington's was above Jim Manning's limit.

MRS. DR. SCHULTZ WANTS DAMAGES

HAD A CARD FROM SENATOR MARK HANNA

Chicago Colored Woman Tells a Story of Ill-Treatment at Hands of Ex-Superintendent Roger O'Mara and Detective McGovern.

The case of Mrs. Dr. A. B. Schultz of Chicago, Ill., against ex-Superintendent Roger O'Mara of the bureau of police and Detectives Richard Kelly and Charles McGovern for $15,000 damages for alleged false arrest, was called for trial in Common Pleas Court No. 1 yesterday. The plaintiff was arrested at the Baltimore & Ohio depot March 7, 1901. The plaintiff was fashionably attired and rather prepossessing in manner.

Mrs. Schultz testified that she has been practicing medicine for four years. She further said that when she arrived at the station McGovern approached her and said, "Hello, Laura." She said she remarked that he was mistaken, whereupon Kelly said, "How are you, Laura?"

The plaintiff says she told them her name and Kelly then replied, "No, you are Laura Jackson." She then said she displayed her physician badge and a card Senator Mark Hanna had given her, when the officers told her she was a pretty smooth article and that they had a telegram from Chicago which set forth she was wanted and that she had to go with them.

Mrs. Schultz declared the officers would not allow her to send a telegram to Washington, and when she refused to go to the police station McGovern said they would throw her in. They all walked to the station house. As to Detective Kelly's actions the plaintiff said:

"He was so gentlemanly and different from what the dark haired man was."

The plaintiff went into details of her arrival at the central police station and said in answer to a question, McGovern said she was "a crook." The plaintiff said the matron compelled her to remove all of her clothing to be searched, while McGovern stood in an open doorway. Then she said she was taken to a cell and later into a room where Superintendent O'Mara was. She swore the superintendent pulled her watch out of her dress and asked her where she got it. Later she was released. The plaintiff is a mulatto and upon cross-examination she admitted she got off the train with a negro.

For the defense it was admitted the wrong woman had been arrested, but that the arrest was justified by reason of the receipt of a telegram from Washington for the detention of a woman answering the plaintiff's description wanted there for the stealing $4,500. Detectives Kelly and McGovern told their story of the arrest, but made denials to all the charges of impropriety on their part. The matron at the station testified that the plaintiff only removed a few pieces of her clothing when searched, and that no other persons were present at the time. The case is still on trial.

NOVEMBER TERM OPENS.

United States Circuit Court Has Seventy-Nine Cases to Try.

The November term of the United States circuit court opened yesterday with Judges Marcus W. Acheson and Joseph Buffington on the bench.

Of the 79 cases docketed there are 56 for trial, 37 of which were brought by oil producers against various railroad companies. Nineteen other cases were continued, one to be tried by jury, one was transferred to the middle district court and one settled, leaving but 10 to be tried.

A new idea was instituted in circuit court jury matters. Heretofore when the term began 60 jurors were summoned for the first Monday. Yesterday but 40 were called, leaving 20 to be summoned next Monday.

Judge Marcus Acheson heard arguments on demurrers last week in the cases of the oil shippers against the railroads, in which alleged freight discriminations are claimed. The court stated that the cases would not be tried until the arguments were decided. The petition raised by the Lehigh Valley railroad being considered well taken.

A partial report of the condition of the Calivada Colonization Company was filed by Receiver A. C. Hayes. The report shows that the stockholders stand a fair chance of receiving everything due them. The scheme to cultivate tracts of land in Nevada and California by a system of irrigation was allowed to lapse. It will probably be resumed. A railroad for the territory was spoken of in the report.

The referee in the bankruptcy case of Joseph Murphy of New Castle dismissed the exceptions to his report with a racy opinion. He said that the exceptions seemed to be unusual, in bad form, impertinent, scandalous, alleged the motive of the referee in style, and impeach the motive of the referee in the discharge of an onerous and disagreeable duty. He said that the exceptant had never appeared before him or filed a paper, except his petition for fees, and had done nothing to show that he had any interest in the estate; that he failed to perform duties which he should have done, yet filed a petition for fees four times the amount received by the attorney for the trustee and thought that when he awarded him the same amount he was doing more than full justice.

The exceptions were that the referee erred in disallowing a claim for $200 fees. The suit of M. A. Woodward against the Manhattan Life Insurance Company of New York was entered in United States district court. The suit is brought to recover fees for services as attorney amounting to $3,652 95.

REFUSED TO DISBAR HIM.

Court Discharges a Rule on Attorney Albert N. Hunter.

Judge F. H. Collier handed down an opinion in the matter of the disbarment proceedings against Attorney Albert N. Hunter. The petition asking for such an order was filed by Jacob Vetter, who alleged Attorney Hunter retained $1,000 entrusted to him for investment. In discharging the rule granted on Attorney Hunter the court says:

"While the facts set forth in the affidavit of the applicant show breach of confidence on the part of Hunter, we do not think that the transaction falls within the line of misconduct by him as a member of the bar. In this matter he was acting as an ordinary agent and not in the line of his duty as an attorney at law. For this reason the rule is discharged."

CARNEGIE SAW PRESENT PLANS

Conferred With Committee On Plan and Scope of New School.

PLEASED WITH WORK OF COMMITTEE

Great Ironmaster Spent Three Hours Going Over Plans for New Polytechnic School—Report Will Be Laid Before Trustees Today.

For three hours yesterday afternoon Andrew Carnegie was closeted with the members of the plan and scope committee in the board room of the Carnegie building discussing the plans which were prepared some weeks ago for the proposed new polytechnic school.

Nothing definite was accomplished at the meeting, but the final plans of the committee and the answer to them from Mr. Carnegie will be given to the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute, which will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Carnegie seems to be in hearty accord with the plans as submitted and is evidently much pleased with the work of the committee. After the meeting he refused to make a statement as to what he would do in the matter, but stated he would give his final answer at the conference with the board of trustees this afternoon.

The matter of a site for the new school was barely touched on during the conference and it was not discussed by Mr. Carnegie. After the meting William McConway, chairman of the plan and scope committee, gave out the following: "We have no statement to make at this time. The meeting this afternoon with Mr. Carnegie was held simply to acquaint him with the arrangements made by the committee.

Carnegie Greatly Interested.

"Mr. Carnegie was exceedingly interested and asked specifically about every plan and point. He regards the erection of the new school as one of the most important events in his life's work. He has offered to give to Pittsburgh one of the greatest polytechnical schools in the world, and has also agreed to endow the school with $1,000,000. The matter is now up to the city to furnish a site for the new school, and for the life of me, I cannot see how she is going to do it.

"The reports of all the experts asked by the committee to formulate the plans were carefully gone over, and Mr. Carnegie put forth questions like a rapid-fire gun. At the conclusion of the meeting he seemed satisfied with everything. He did not express an opinion to any of the members of the committee."

The members of the committee present at yesterday's meeting were William McConway, chairman; William L. Soaife, Prof. John A. Brashear and William N. Frew. No successor has yet been appointed to ex-Mayor Diehl, who resigned.

Carnegie Tired but Happy.

After Mr. McConway had given this statement to the newspaper men an effort was made to see Mr. Carnegie and get him to make a statement on the meeting. In a short time he emerged from the room, leaning on the arm of Mr. McConway. "Mr. Carnegie has agreed to speak to you, gentlemen," said Mr. McConway. And the laird of Skibo said laughingly:

"Hello, boys. I am glad to see all of you. What papers do you represent?" On being informed that the men were all representatives of the morning newspapers of Pittsburgh, Mr. Carnegie smiled and said: "All bright morning sons."

"Now, boys, I am glad to meet you all, but I cannot give you any definite statement about our meeting this afternoon. I have just come out of the meeting, and I assure you it was a siege, and I am almost tired out. For three hours we have discussed the plans of the committee for the new polytechnic school, and I assure you our discussion has been thorough.

"We have gone over vast volumes of papers and my head is so crammed with knowledge that I scarcely know how to express myself. I have learned a great deal this afternoon. This matter is of the most vital importance to me, and also to the people of Pittsburgh."

"Mr. Carnegie, are you pleased with the plans which have been submitted to you?" was asked. The steel king hesitated for a second and said:

Would Express No Opinion.

"It is not possible for me to express an opinion. Mr. McConway has told you all I have to say. The meeting this afternoon was simply a preliminary conference between myself and the members of the committee of plan and scope, and was informal in every way. Mr. McConway will make his report officially to the board of trustees tomorrow afternoon, and then I shall be at liberty to express an opinion to you. Again I must say I have gained a vast amount of knowledge from the conference this afternoon."

"Will you tell us how to get some of that knowledge?" queried one of the newspaper men. "Yes, my boy; be honest, be virtuous." With this remark Mr. Carnegie closed the interview.

He will drive to Carnegie institute early this morning and spend the morning in conference with Dr. William J. Holland, director of the museum. The results of the various exploration parties in the west which have been sent out by the museum will be laid before Mr. Carnegie, and it is expected that he will empower Dr. Holland to make many new purchases and give additional funds for the use of the museum.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock Mr. Carnegie will meet the members of the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute in the Carnegie building. He will probably devote the balance of the week to visiting the different plants of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Mr. Carnegie arose early yesterday morning and after breakfast at the Lauder residence drove to Schenley park. At the Phipps conservatories he was met by Director of Public Works Edward M. Bigelow and Supt. Falconer.

After leaving the conservatories Mr. Carnegie, in company with Director Bigelow, drove to the Carnegie building, where he took luncheon with the heads of the departments of the Carnegie Steel Company.

THE NEW STEEL COMBINE A GO

Strong Efforts to Induce Jones & Laughlins to Enter, Fail, However.

CONCERNS TO JOIN ALL IN THE EAST

The Company Will Work in Harmony With United States Steel Corporation, of Which It Is Not a Competitor—Plaster Combine.

(By Private Wire to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The Sunday night story from Philadelphia of the formation of a new $50,000,000 steel combine was partly confirmed today by Evans R. Dick of the New York house of Dick Bros. & Co., the fiscal agency of the Tidewater Steel Company. Mr. Dick himself is one of the largest individual holders of Tidewater stock and is the first gentleman named in the directorate of that concern.

Mr. Dick today refused to go into details, but admitted that negotiations to the end indicated are going forward. That part of the story involving Jones & Laughlins of Pittsburgh is discredited here, however, and although this interest has been offered fancy inducements, the negotiators are understood to have about given up hope of bringing it into line. Naturally, the Jones & Laughlins interest would be the strongest in the combine if it consents to enter.

It is understood that if the Jones & Laughlins feature of the scheme cannot be managed the promoters will reduce the tentative capitalization of their combine. The Tidewater Steel Company then would become the heart of the project. Its products comprise foundry forge iron, basin pig, basic open hearth ingots, billets and slabs, and also tank, ship, boiler, flange, firebox and marine steel plates. In none of its more important products does the Tidewater conflict with the United States Steel Corporation, and the same holds more or less true with respect to the other properties understood to be involved in the combine, all of which lie east of the Alleghanies.

The presence of Mr. Schwab in the negotiations puts a very interesting aspect upon the entire matter. In iron and steel circles here the impression prevails that the projected combine, if effected, will not only be friendly with the United States Steel Corporation, but probably will be operated under a close understanding with the existing combine.

Bulling United States Steel.

One of the significant features of the stock market today—a market of more than 1,000,000 shares again—was the bullish behavior of United States Steel shares. Keene brokers were heavy buyers of the stock and they were ostentatious enough about it to leave the impression that a new bull pool had been formed to take care of Steel. It is to be remembered that Wall street is extremely eager to get a public following. The public buys great store by United States Steel, accepting it more or less as the barometer of the market. A fortnight ago Steel shares were not only weak, but looked positively treacherous, and this, as much as anything else perhaps, influenced the public to stand off in spite of the blandishments of professional Wall street. Now, if the scheme is to bring back the public, nothing could be more pertinent to the work in hand than to make a bullish demonstration in the Steel shares; and that, indeed, is what seems to be doing.

There is another consideration, it being that there has been a large short interest in Steel. It accumulated while the stock was being distributed by the underwriting syndicate. Traders seemed to pride themselves on their audacity in selling Steel, and scoffed at those who had been saying that the stock could not break 40.

The New Gypsum Combine.

The second attempt to bring the gypsum interests of this country into a combine has been attended by a degree of success rarely equaled in the efforts of the trust makers. Some time this week there will be incorporated in New Jersey the United States Gypsum Company, with a capital of $10,000,000, of which $5,000,000 will be 7 per cent preferred stock and the rest common. This concern will have a tight control of the plaster industry of the United States, having corralled every concern of any importance in the United States. Its only competitor will be the firms that import gypsum from Nova Scotia, and they are of some consequence in the American market.

The United States Gypsum Company will have an average annual output of 600,000 tons and will employ upwards of 50,000 people. It is said little or no stock will be offered for public subscription, and no bond issue is contemplated. The policy of the company will be to concentrate its widely scattered interests as much as possible, but it is promised that none of the constituent plants will be abandoned.

The first attempt to consolidate the gypsum interests of the United States was a signal failure for reasons best known to the promoters. The credit of bringing about the present understanding between plaster manufacturers belongs to the law firm of Jones & McCormick of this city. Details of the combine were perfected at a meeting held in Chicago last week, and the final agreement then concluded was the gratifying result of negotiations dating back four months. It is said the earnings of the constituent properties of the combine are largely in excess of the amount required to pay dividends on the preferred stock.

Embarrassed by Prosperity.

It was announced today that the Sharon Steel Company is no less embarrassed o meet the demands that are being made upon its capacity. The construction of its new pipe and sheet steel mill has been delayed for want of structural steel. The transportation department of the Sharon Steel Company will be put to it to employ upwards of 5,000 peoples. The output of the company now averages between 700 and 1,000 tons a day. How seriously the shortage of cars affects the manufacturer of finished products may be gathered from the fact that several concerns in the Pittsburgh district have been forced to charter special trains in order to get coke to their furnaces. The Sharon Steel Company on Saturday last ran a special train from New Castle to its Sharon plant.

Even the interests most seriously embarrassed by the present shortage of transportation facilities manage to derive from their perplexities the consolation that this condition of things is indubitable evidence of the unparalleled prosperity of the country. A well known steel manufacturer, who returned today from the Pittsburgh district, said the railroads are embarrassed not only for lack of freight cars, but also by the insufficiency of trackage. Sidetrackage in the Pittsburgh district, he says, is wholly inadequate for current business. Before steel rails are now being used to enlarge sidetrackage facilities than ever before in the history of railroad development. It is said a large percentage of the demand for steel rails can be traced to the necessities experienced by railroad companies for greater yard facilities.

E. W. HARDEN.

Visible Supply of Grain.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The statement of the visible supply of grain, in store and afloat, on Saturday, November 9, as compiled by the New York produce exchange, is as follows: Wheat, 41,960,000 bushels; increase, 167,000 bushels. Corn, 12,641,000 bushels; decrease, 259,000 bushels. Oats, 7,736,000 bushels; decrease, 808,000 bushels. Rye, 2,432,000 bushels; increase, 788,000 bushels. Barley, 2,-689,000 bushels; increase, 303,000 bushels.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Latest Finds in Gold, Silver, Copper and Other Metals in the Far Western States.

(By Private Wire to The Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Advices from Fort Steel, B. C., note more activity on Wild Horse creek than for several years past. Both quartz and placer mines are in active operation and a large output of gold is expected. The St. Eugene has closed down for the winter.

Before the end of this month the Rocky mountain smelter at Florence, Col., will be running full blast. The daily capacity will be 800 tons and about 150 men will be employed.

The Good Hope, near Gunnison, Col., is striking rich ore on the sixth level. This is one of the few mines in the state that produces pure native tellurium. This metal associates itself with rich ore which goes from $1,000 to $2,000 a ton in gold.

Dawson reports that the Atlin district has produced 12,120 ounces of gold this season, as against 11,490 ounces in 1900. Owing to litigation and harassing regulations several of the large hydraulic companies did little work during the summer.

A good-sized vein of coal in a formation of cinnibar has been found in the Meadows district, Ore., at a depth of 150 feet. It is said this combination has never been observed before.

Philadelphia capitalists have taken a two-months' option on the mines property near Charlotte, N. C., and are about to begin active mining operations. They already own 10 acres of mineralized land and intend to erect a smelter to cost $200,000.

A crew of smelter men has been dispatched from Salt Lake furnaces of the Glasgow and Western Exploration Company of Golconda, Nev., where the production of bullion is being resumed.

The eastern company that owns the McKinley group of mines at Ely, Nev., proposes to erect a milling and smelting plant, provided the development work on the property justifies it.

At 85 feet in the Cabin shaft of the Salt Lake Company, at Tonopah, Nev., ore has been struck near the Valley View ledge that is similar to that in the Tonopah mines. It is of a good value.

Wall Street Had Another Day of Active Trading

NEW FAVORITES HAVE THE CALL

Holders of Last Week's Active Stocks Take Their Profits.

ONE MOVEMENT COVERS THE OTHER

Dealings to a Large Extent Remained in the Hands of Professionals—Northwestern Railroad Settlement Material for Bears.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—This was another day of broad and active speculation in stocks with a large and well distributed demand for bonds, outside of the extraordinary dealings in some of the convertible and speculative bonds. It is notable in this regard that while the dealings for the last week in stocks were still below the large business for the corresponding period of last year, the par value of the bonds dealt in last week exceeded that of the corresponding period of last year by over $8,000,000. The demand for stocks today was exceedingly varied, as was the movement of prices, owing to the fact that the buying demand shifted to new quarters and realizing of profits proceeded actively in last week's favorites, taking advantage of the sustaining force of the new favorites. The dealings continued to a large extent to remain in professional hands, although there was some accession of speculative interest today shown by orders through commission houses. While the professionals dominate the market, the news of the day as it influences stock speculation is likely to be distorted in its perspective to suit the prevailing sentiment of the speculation. Today the Northwestern railroad settlement and the Vanderbilt plan of merger which furnished the material of the bulls during the last week's rise fell into the background decidedly, while the discussion became very active on the favorable prospects in the coal trade, the iron and steel trade and the extraordinary railroad traffic of which reports are heard on all hands. In accordance with this tendency, the coal carriers and the iron and steel industrials made conspicuous advances today, while the professionals sold the trans-continental stocks and the Vanderbilts to take their profits. After the unprecedented outlays of the past year for increase and improvement of rolling stock and equipment, the fact that an actual car famine exists is the most potent factor in the conclusive evidence that the business offering to the railroads is greater than ever before. From the coal and iron regions comes the cry for more cars, many iron mills being reported shut down for lack of coke and material. Grain receipts are said to be small because of lack of cars to move them. This accords with the reports that the overwhelming railroad traffic is largely made up of the necessities, rather than of the activity in trade in all lines. The urgent demands for freight cars and other forms of railroad equipment made the movement today in the car and steel industrials a natural corollary of the bull movement in the railroad stocks. The day's conspicuous advances will be seen to have centered in the anthracite and soft coal carriers and in the car and steel industrials. Stocking Coal rose 2 on a dividend of 2½. American Car preferred with a gain of 4, and several others with 2 or more points to their credit, were conspicuous in the movement. Sugar and Amalgamated Copper were affected by an active demand from the shorts, and both stocks were very largely dealt in for Boston account. Chicago & Eastern Illinois jumped nine points, but reacted five. Union Pacific preferred rose four points and Great Northern preferred and Northern Pacific preferred moved sloughly upward at the last on revived reports of an early settlement. Sentiment continued confident over the money outlook, although foreign exchange continued strong and additional gold shipments are expected later in the week. Realizing became very general in the late dealings, but a number of rallies made the closing irregular.

The bond market was very active and generally strong, the convertible and speculative bonds especially so. Standard Rope sixes rose 4½. Total sales par value $6,625,000.

United States Refunding seconds declined ½ and the old fours advanced ¼ per cent on the last call.

LOWEST AVERAGE ON RECORD

Government Crop Report on Corn Very Bullish—Rise Gloomy on Minor Products.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—The following crop report was issued this afternoon by the department of agriculture:

The preliminary estimate of the average yield to the acre of corn is 26.4 bushels, as compared with an average yield of 25.9 bushels to the acre in 1900 and 1896, and a 10-year average of 24.4 bushels. The present indication of yield to the acre is the lowest general average ever recorded for this crop, being 1.5 bushels below the yield in 1901, which has stood for 20 years as the lowest on record.

The preliminary estimate of the average yield to the acre of spring wheat is 9.9 bushels, against the average yield of 15 bushels in 1900, 16 bushels in 1899 and a 10-year average of 16.9 bushels.

The preliminary estimate of the yield to the acre of potatoes is 58.9 bushels, against an average yield of 80.5 bushels in 1900, and 88.6 bushels in 1899, and a 10-year average of 76.1 bushels. This is the lowest yield to the acre is the lowest since 1890.

The preliminary estimate of the average yield to the acre of hay is 1.52 tons, against an average of 1.58 tons in 1900, 1.64 tons in 1899, and a 10-year average of 1.25 tons.

The apple crop is considerably below the 10-year average. The pear and grape crops have also fallen below, and the sweet potato crop is slightly above.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.

The week in the lower southwest fields began with a goodly number of completed wells, the producers are ordinary in size, and the number of dusters on the Ohio side of the river is unfortunately large. The Pink creek district, in Lewis county, W. Va., has been improving its record of late. The new wells do not show an extension, being located inside of defined limits.

The South Penn Oil Company has completed its No. 6 on the M. & H. McDonald farm and has a 100-barrel producer. The same company has completed its test well on the Thos. Fahey farm and has a 40-barrel producer.

In the Pine Grove district, Wetzel county, E. H. Jennings & Bros. have shot their No. 25 on the I. S. Hoyt farm and increased the production from 60 to 260 barrels a day. In the same district the South Penn Company has completed its No. 10 on the W. J. Criswell farm and has a very little interest, not good for more than five barrels a day.

In the Cow Run sand territory, near Calcutta, Pleasants county, S. T. Bastings has completed his No. 20 on the Sol. Pethtel farm and has a 25-barrel producer from the Cow Run sand. J. C. Trees & Co.'s No. 19 on the Aaron Hills farm is good for 50 barrels a day. The Sure Oil Company has also completed its test well on the J. R. Hills farm and has a 30-barrel producer. Window Glass common broke to 55½. Closed 55¾. Loss 1⅞.

Crucible Steel closed at 23 and the preferred at 85.

Westinghouse Airbrake advanced 1½ to 170.

Electric seconds declined to 71. Coalers were steady to firm.

The market on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday was the most active the brokers have enjoyed in quite a while, the sales amounting to nearly 6,000 shares alone. The tone was irregular but the general feeling was stronger and in some cases almost if not quite buoyant. All told twenty-three different securities were traded in and of this number thirteen advances ranging from ⅛ to 10 per cent were made, while only seven declined from ⅛ to $3. The remaining three were steady at the last prices. The greatest activity was in United States Steel common, which sold nearly 2,000 shares at 43½@44¾, closing quite strong at the top, which was a gain of 1¼ for the day. The preferred, while less active, was equally as firm at 94 at the close, a gain of 1½. Both issues offered a shade lower after the final sales, the common at 44⅜ and the preferred at 93¾. Crucible Steel common, while quite dull, was firmer and ¼ higher at 23. The preferred was fairly active and firmer and ⅝ higher at 85, nearly 700 shares having changed hands. American Window Glass common continued it slump by breaking $2 to 55½, but just before the close it rallied to 55¾. The sales were a little over 700 shares and the trading was not at all significant. The preferred also weakened, selling down ½ to 89½ on sales of 400 shares. Pittsburgh Plate Glass common was weak and $3 lower at 167 for 100 shares. Westinghouse Airbrake sold 100 shares and closed quite strong and 1½ higher at 170, that price being bid for more afterward. Electric seconds were easier and ⅛ lower at 71, only small sales having occurred. The coalers were quite firm but only fairly active. Silver preferred advanced $1 to $46 for a single lot of 90 shares, after which 45⅝ was bid for regular lots without offers. The common was unchanged. Pittsburgh common was steady and ¼ higher at 27⅜, while the preferred declined ⅛ to 92 on small sales. American Trust broke $2 to $128 and Fire Proofing common lost ½ at 31½. The preferred gained ¼ at 41¾. Brewing stocks were steady but will probably sell lower today because the directors yesterday declared only the regular quarterly dividends, instead of making an advance on the common. Pressed Steel Car stocks were strong and higher, the common advancing 2½ to 44 and the preferred 1¾ to 84. $2,000 St. Clair Water Company 6s sold at 125, an advance of 10 per cent. Consolidated Traction preferred receipts were firm but unchanged at 64½ for 600. In the quotations Pittsburgh stock exchange seats offered $100 lower at $5,100 and Dollar Savings Fund & Trust advanced $1 to $207 bid, a new high record. There were no other noteworthy changes.

The following is a complete summary of the day's official transactions on the Pittsburgh stock exchange. It shows the change in the closing selling prices, compared with the last preceding sales, the total sales of each security, the opening, high, low and closing prices, new high records and final bids and offers:

WOULD CHECK THE COMBINES

President Roosevelt Has Decided Ideas on So-Called Trust Question.

AGAINST THE WATERING OF STOCKS

Desires to Prevent the Draining of Investments from the Savings Account of the People—The Meeting of Congress.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
503 Fifteenth St., N.W.,
WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 11.

Congress will convene three weeks from today, and although it is the beginning of a new congress, very few of its members are yet in Washington. This is largely due to the fact that there will be no contest for speakership or other offices of the house, and to the fact that the subjects of probable congressional action are pretty well understood.

Speaker Henderson will arrive tomorrow, and by the middle of next week senators and representatives will begin to come in. A caucus of Republicans on the speakership will be held a few days before the 1st of December. It will be a perfunctory affair, so far as the speakership nomination is concerned; for there has not been a whisper of opposition to Mr. Henderson. Major McDowell, clerk of the house; Colonel Casson, sergeant-at-arms; Mr. Glenn, doorkeeper, and the other officers have made enviable records, and there is no one in the field against their re-election.

It is generally believed by senators and representatives who have recently visited the White House that President Roosevelt will recommend in his first letter to congress something in the way of restraining harmful operations of trade combinations, popularly known as trusts. This idea is based upon remarks the president has made upon the subject when talking to senators and representatives who have recently called at the White House. Comparison of notes by these gentlemen has shown a uniform tenor of the president's conversation toward trust restriction.

The president has been urged by some of the political managers to set the pace for congressional action in order that there may be fulfillment of Republican pledges on the trust question, so that the party can go into the congressional campaign next fall with a clean record on this score. Other Republicans have deprecated dealing with the question at all.

The president did not need to have his attention called to the subject, for he possessed at the time he entered the White House some very decided ideas upon it. He gave attention to the question when he was governor of New York, expressing his opinion very freely to the legislature concerning state control of industrial combinations. In his letter of acceptance of the nomination for the vice presidency he discussed the trusts, and as late as last September, in a speech in Minneapolis, he again touched upon them. In all of his public utterances the president has contended that the first essential in attempting to regulate trusts is to obtain publicity of their methods and transactions, this mainly in the interest of investors in trust stocks. He has elaborated this idea in private conversation. It is said the president regards the greatest menace of industrial combinations to be overcapitalization and the draining of investments from the savings accounts of the people.

SCIENTISTS WIN A POINT.

Naval Observatory Board of Visitors Reports in Their Favor.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—A contest between the scientists of the country on one side and naval line officers on the other, which has been waged for years past, and involves the rich prize of the control of the naval observatory, has been brought to a critical point by the presentation to Secretary Long of the report of the board of visitors to the observatory, in which the issue is drawn sharply in favor of civil control. The board is composed of Charles A. Young, Charles F. Chandler, Asaph Hall, Jr., E. C. Pickering, Prof. Ormond Stone and William R. Harper, all men of national reputation and scientific research.

The particular bone of contention of late has been a vacancy in the office of astronomical director. The board declines to name a person to fill the vacant office of assistant astronomer at the observatory, and instead recommends that the appointment be made after a civil service examination under the auspices of the commission.

CAPITAL PERSONAL MENTION.

P. C. Knox Treats Mrs. Roosevelt to an Enjoyable Drive.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Attorney General Knox gave Mrs. Roosevelt an enjoyable ride this morning behind his handsome $10,000 pair of roadsters. Mrs. Roosevelt is a thorough horsewoman and enjoyed the ride very much. Mr. Knox had the president out for a drive the other day behind the team, and was then asked to assist the president in securing a good team for the White House stables.

Representative Graham of Allegheny spent a few hours in this city today. He was on his way to Philadelphia and stopped off to visit his daughter, who is at a boarding school here.

Thomas Eichbaum of Erie, a clerk in the census office, had a narrow escape early this morning from suffocation by illuminating gas. He was removed to the hospital and soon revived. It is believed he attempted to commit suicide because of his sufferings from wounds received in the civil war.

BURNS IS HOPEFUL.

Says That He Will Down the Parsons Faction Soon.

Master Workman Simon Burns and five Pittsburgh delegates left yesterday for Indianapolis, Ind., to attend the annual general assembly of the Incorporated Knights of Labor. It is expected that the constitution will be amended so as to lessen the importance of the old principle that "the interest of one is the interest of all," recognizing this principle only when exigencies arise.

Master Workman Burns, who is also president of the Window Glass Workers' association, said before leaving that his branch of the Knights of Labor holds fully 75 per cent of the total membership, and that he expects an early and favorable decision, after which steps will be taken to secure the return of all funds collected by the Parsons faction. Secretary John W. Hayes joined Mr. Burns here for the trip to Indianapolis.

Labor Leader in Porto Rico Prison.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, protested to the president today against the arrest of Santiago Iglesias, who was sent to Porto Rico by the American Federation of Labor to organize the workingmen of the island. The nature of the charge against Iglesias is not known. President Roosevelt immediately sent an inquiry to Gov. Hunt.

The Plague at Odessa.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—A cable dispatch was received today at the office of the surgeon general of the marine hospital service, saying plague had broken out at Odessa, Russia.

Fine Specimen of Bookmaker's Art.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—Prof. Leoni of Italy, today brought to the White House for the president's inspection a beautiful illuminated history of the United States. The work is upon parchment sheets, each framed, and all carried in a box as large as a packing case. The style is similar to the illuminated illustrations of the Bible executed by the monks in the middle ages.

GUN CONTRACT ANNULLED.

Comptroller Holds the Bethlehem Steel Company Forfeited Rights by Changing Its Name.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—A contract for 100 guns awarded to the Bethlehem Iron Company has been placed in jeopardy as a result of the action of the corporation in changing its name to the Bethlehem Steel Company. The comptroller of the treasury decided today that the assignment of the contract by the Bathlehem Iron Company to its successor is void and that the United States is not indebted to the steel company on account of the labor and material furnished under the provisions of the contract with the old concern. Having ceased to exist the latter corporation has made default in its contract which, the comptroller says, the secretary is authorized to annul.

The question arose upon the application of the Bethlehem Steel Company for payments amounting to $109,000 on two 12-inch sea coast guns, a part of the 100-gun contract. While the comptroller is unable to authorize the payment of the money to the Bethlehem Steel Company, he says the secretary of war, in his discretion, may make a new contract with the Bethlehem Steel Company wherein payment can be provided for the work in question.

DEMANDS OF LABOR.

Gompers Tells the President What the Federation Wants.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor has at the president's request submitted a statement of legislation desired by organized labor.

He places foremost the re-enactment of the Chinese exclusion act, and explains that organized labor asks a more rigid enforcement of the alien contract labor laws, the extension of the eight-hour law, and further legislation removing the products of prison labor from competition with free labor.

Olympia Again a Flagship.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—The navy department announced today that the cruiser Olympia, which has been undergoing repairs at the Boston yard, will be put in commission December 18 and be assigned to the North Atlantic squadron. She will be the flagship of Admiral Higginson.

A Bank for Oxford, O.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The comptroller of the currency has approved the application of G. C. Wellliver of Oxford, O.; Josiah A. Welsh, S. H. Allen, Ezra Bourne, William F. Boughman and G. Burkhardt, for authority to organize the Oxford National bank on $60,000 capital.

Schley Court Preparing Decision.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—The Schley court of inquiry is at work again. Its members assembled this morning to prepare a written opinion of the testimony and arguments to which they listened for six weeks in the navy yard.

Dewey's House Imperiled.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—A forest fire at Cleveland park this afternoon required three engines of the city fire department in order to save the country residence of Admiral Dewey.

WILL SHOOT 21 MILES.

Work Soon to Be Resumed on 16-Inch Rifle at Watervleit Arsenal.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 11.—As soon as the new trunnion hook can be received from the Bethlehem Steel Company work will be resumed at the United States arsenal at Watervleit on the new 16-inch gun which is to be made for Fort Hamilton, in New York harbor. This gun will be the largest ever made in the world. It is a breech loader, and the breech will be so constructed that a child can open and fire it. It will shoot a distance of 21 miles, but in order to do so the shot will assume an altitude as high as Pike's peak.

After the hook has been placed in it the gun is to have another jacket shrunk on it. Military men the world over are very much interested in the mechanism of this gun, as it will be an innovation for coast defense.

If You Live to Old Age
Life assurance is, first of all, a protection against present disaster—
But it is more than that—
It is a
Provision for future need—
You'll hardly have the earning power twenty years from now that you have today—
The Equitable Life Assurance Society has a policy particularly adapted to the needs of men who expect to live—

When Strength Fails the Overworked Woman.

All around us, on every hand, there is the overworked woman who has devoted her life to others.
She is the salvation of the home; hers is the tie that binds the family together.
What is to be done for her?
To such an earnest, devoted woman the benefits of Johann Hoff's Malt Extract are very pronounced.
Johann Hoff's Malt Extract is a perfect aid to Nature in the process of getting the nutrition from food converted into blood and flesh. The weakest stomach can take
JOHANN HOFF'S Malt Extract
and its good work is not confined to a few. It always helps because it aids digestion.
The world needs these faithful, conscientious, self-sacrificing women. It cannot get along without them. The home needs them. If you are one of them don't let your usefulness be impaired by a break-down.
You can get help from the genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract.
It builds up the health through natural channels and keeps the nerves from getting overwrought.
Be sure you do not accept a substitute for Johann Hoff's.
Dr. M. C. White, of Rochester, N. Y., writes: "I have tested the merits of Johann Hoff's Malt Extract by personal use. I have been for some time weak and nervous. Johann Hoff's Malt Extract was beyond description. I find it a grand tonic; quieting and restful. I can now go about my daily duties with more courage."
